Mitcheson,Patrick L. Colin,2011-12-10 Reef fish spawning aggregations ranging from small groups to many tens of thousands of individuals are spectacular but poorly known natural phenomena whereby fish assemble at specific times and locations to spawn For some species these large groups may be the only form of reproduction the high fish numbers briefly giving a false impression of stability and abundance an illusion of plenty They are often a focus for intensive seasonal fishing because of their predictability and because many important commercial fishes form them Highly vulnerable to overexploitation many aggregations and their associated fisheries have disappeared or are in decline Few are effectively managed or incorporated into protected areas Aggregations are not well understood by fishery scientists managers and conservationists and their significance little appreciated by fishers or the wider public To ensure their persistence to replenish important fisheries in
