Multimedia, Computer Graphics and Broadcasting Dominik Slezak, William I. Grosky, Niki Pissinou, Timothy K. Shih, Tai-hoon Kim, Byeong-Ho Kang, 2009-11-24

As future generation information technology (FGIT) becomes specialized and fragmented, it is easy to lose sight that many topics in FGIT have common threads and because of this, advances in one discipline may be transmitted to others. Presentation of recent results obtained in different disciplines encourages this interchange for the advancement of FGIT as a whole. Of particular interest are hybrid solutions that combine ideas taken from multiple disciplines in order to achieve something more significant than the sum of the individual parts. Through such hybrid philosophy, a new principle can be discovered which has the propensity to propagate throughout multifaceted disciplines. FGIT 2009 was the first mega conference that attempted to follow the above idea of hybridization in FGIT in a form of multiple events related to particular disciplines of IT, conducted by separate scientific committees but coordinated in order to expose the most important contributions. It included the following international conferences: Advanced Software Engineering and Its Applications, ASE; Bio Science and Bio Technology, BSBT; Control and Automation, CA; Database Theory and Application, DTA; Disaster Recovery and Business Continuity, DRBC; published independently: Future Generation Communication and Networking, FGCN; that was combined with Advanced Communication and Networking, ACN; Grid and Distributed Computing, GDC; Multimedia, Computer Graphics and Broadcasting, MulGraB; Security Technology, SecTech; Signal Processing, Image Processing and Pattern Recognition, SIP; and e-Service Science and Technology, UNESST.
