Gestures of Healing shows how the dominant novelists of American and British modernism James Conrad Ford Forster Joyce Woolf Lawrence Fitzgerald Hemingway and Faulkner express a common condition of pain anxiety produced by the experience of chaos in the self John J Clayton seeks the source of this condition not in vague reference to modern society nor in philosophical trends but rather in the families of these writers Clayton argues that although their situations were very different these writers had in common certain patterns particularly a weak or absent father and a central strongwilled mother that in the absence of coherent grounding in the community shaped a fragmented incomplete self After tracing the often tragic effects of modernist anxiety on the writers lives Clayton explores how the fiction created by each author gestures toward healing He shows how the writers use the reader much as a patient uses an analyst and how the culture that enthroned modernism looked to it for the same healing The book while psychoanalytically informed is readable personal in tone and free of jargon Gestures of Healing concludes with extended studies of James Lawrence and Woolf
