

FOREVER

AN ATHLETE

I am an athlete.

I push harder than the common man or woman,
More than the "weekend warrior".
Having trained harder than most,
I have pushed my body to the extreme and conquered all the pain.
I did all of this for myself, my team, and our victory.
This is not a statement, but an oath.
An oath to myself, my team, and all who support me.
An oath to respect the sport that I play.
For the past, present, and the future.
For the players that have played before me.
The teammates with whom I go into battle with,
And the athletes that will play after me.

I am an athlete.

I am held to a higher standard than most.
More is expected of me than the average student.
I have applied my competitive drive to the academic arena.
I have not allowed the challenge and strain of classes to hold me back.
I have kept the grades to keep me in the fight of athletic competition.
My education will help to better my life for myself and my family.
For when I have to step away from the field of competition and take on the game of life.

I am an athlete.

I will not cower in the face of adversity.
I will not back down.
I believe I can beat any challenger but I am not afraid to lose.
Faith be with the warrior that challenges me
Because they are in the fight of their lives.
For I will not be a stepping stone to their victory.
They will have to earn their victory over me.
If I lose, I will hold my head up at the end of the challenge
And shake the hand of my opponent.
They were the better competitor this day.
Let it be known that I will be back to avenge my loss
And put a win back under my name.
I will take my place on top of the hill of champions once more
And wait for the challenge of another gladiator
To fight his way to the top, where I am waiting.
Waiting, training and hungry for the next battle.
I will not take my title lightly.
I will give it the respect that it deserves
And continue to train and take on the worthy challengers.
A day will come when I have to pass on my position to the next generation
I will show my fellow athletes the proper respect they deserve
And step down off of my podium for the next competitor
To take my place as a true athlete.

I am an athlete.

When the day comes that I can no longer physically and mentally compete
On the field on which I have shed my blood,
I will take the skills and teachings that I have learned
And apply them to the world that lies in front of me.
To the new arena that calls for a competitor.
With the love and respect for those that have come before me,
Those that have fought with me and against me, and those that will follow after me.
I will walk away from the game I love with pride, dignity, integrity and strength.
Always remember,
Just because I no longer go into battle,
I will always carry the title.
No one will ever be able to take that away from me.
I will forever be an Athlete.

Poem With 4 Stanzas About Football:

Poetry, Signs, Football David Orme, 2001 The Global Game John Turnbull, Thom Satterlee, Alon Raab, 2008-11-01

The world's most popular sport soccer is also one of the planet's prevalent cultural expressions celebrated and debated as an art form observed with ritual and passion. Thus it has inspired literary efforts of every sort from every corner of the globe by women and men. The writings gathered in this volume reflect the universal and infinitely varied ways in which soccer connects with human experience. Poetry and prose from Ted Hughes, Charles Simic, Eduardo Galeano, Günter Grass, Giovanna Pollarolo, 2010 Nobel Prize in Literature Winner Mario Vargas Llosa and Elvis Costello to name but a few take us to a dizzying array of cultures and climes. From a patch of ground in Missoula, Montana to a clearing in a Kosovo forest from the stadiums of Burma and Iran to the northern lights over Greenland to remotest Sierra Leone, these writers show us soccer's stars and fans, politics and rituals as well as the game's power to encourage resistance, inspire faith and build community.

South America is a region that enjoys an unusually high profile as the origin of some of the world's greatest writers and most celebrated footballers. This is the first book to undertake a systematic study of the relationship between football and literature across South America. Beginning with the first football poem published in 1899, it surveys a range of texts that address key issues in the region's social and political history. Drawing on a substantial corpus of short stories, novels and poems, each chapter considers the shifting relationship between football and literature in South America across more than a century of writing. The way in which authors combine football and literature to challenge the dominant narratives of their time suggests that this sport can be seen as a recurring theme through which matters of identity, nationhood, race, gender, violence, politics and aesthetics are played out. This book is fascinating reading for any student, scholar or serious fan of football as well as for all those interested in the relationship between sports, history, literature and society. The British Football Film Stephen Glynn, 2018-05-03. This book constitutes the first full volume dedicated to an academic analysis of British football as depicted on film. From early single-camera silents to its current multi-screen mediations, the repeated treatment of football in British cinema points to the game's importance not only in the everyday rhythms of national life but also and especially its immutable place in the British imaginary landscape. Through close textual analysis together with production and reception histories, this book explores the ways in which professional footballers, amateur players and supporters, the devoted and the demonized, have been represented on the British screen. As well as addressing the joys and sorrows the game necessarily engenders British football is shown to function as an accessible structure to explore wider issues such as class race gender and even the whole notion of Britishness The Complete Works of W. H. Auden: Poems, Volume I W. H.
