Kriesberg, 2010-08-16 This book provides an annotated bibliography of age appropriate literature and activities showing children the importance of environmental issues and teaching them the skills to take action In past years teaching children about conservation and environmental issues might have been an optional side topic to complement an earth science curriculum but in today's educational climate being green is a subject with great relevance and importance

This book combines a wide variety of techniques to help students understand environmental issues and gain the skills needed to take action. The children's literature and classroom activities suggested in Think Green Take Action Books and Activities for Kids are appropriate for elementary school students from grades three through seven covering three major environmental issues: endangered species, resource depletion, and pollution. After students have a grasp of the causes of these environmental problems, the final chapter presents ways to take easy action that can create ripples of change across the world. Educators in museums and nature centers, home-schooled children, and their parents comprise an appropriate secondary audience for this instructive text.

World of fresh water : a resource for studying issues of freshwater research, 1997 National Animal Identification System Lisa Shames, 2008-10 Livestock production contributed 123 billion to the U.S. economy in 2006. In response to concerns about animal disease outbreaks, the U.S. Dept. of Ag. USDA announced in Dec. 2003 that it would implement a nationwide program, the Nat. Animal Identification System (NAIS), to help producers and animal health officials respond quickly and effectively to animal disease events. This report determined 1) how effectively USDA is implementing NAIS and the key issues identified by livestock industry groups, market operators, state officials, and others; 2) how USDA has distributed coop/agree funds to help states and industry prepare for NAIS and evaluated the agreements' results; and 3) what are the costs to implement NAIS. A Sense of Place Daniel A. Kriesberg, 1999-03-15 Celebrating nearby nature and the marvels of our own backyards, this book helps you introduce children to the world around them. With quality children's literature and simple activities, you can cultivate a child's sense of wonder and joy and teach him or her the importance of living in harmony with nature. These projects span the curriculum and are presented in reproducible format so they're easy to use. Highlighting the five senses (sight, sound, smell, taste, touch), they build connections between students and the land and create in young learners a sense of place, a true necessity for living in the world today.
