Density and Distribution

Activate

Study the two images and describe the differences. (climate, economic activities and services, relief, accessibility)

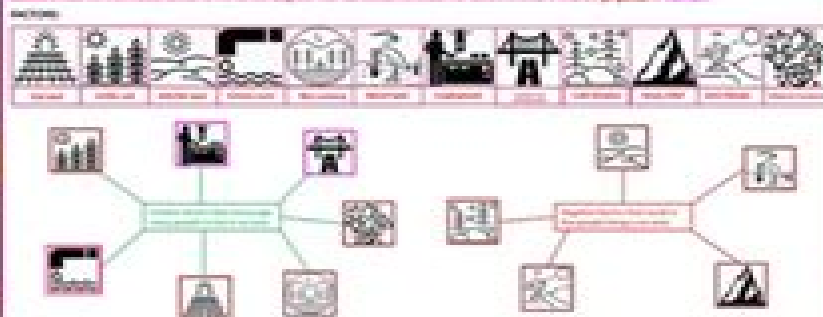

Extension: Compare these pictures to your own home area. Is it more like the valley or the hills?

PRESENTATION

Factors influencing where people live

Activities and the environment influence the world's population. The factors that influence where people live are physical or human.

Extension: How can we use the information to help people live better?

WORKSHEET

Global Population Distribution

Global population distribution shows where people live and how they live. It is the study of the world's population.

Population Density

- The world's population is evenly distributed across the globe.
- The majority of the world's population is concentrated in the low-lying coastal areas of the world.
- The majority of the world's population is concentrated in the low-lying coastal areas of the world.
- The majority of the world's population is concentrated in the low-lying coastal areas of the world.
- The majority of the world's population is concentrated in the low-lying coastal areas of the world.

Population Density and Distribution

Some areas of the world are densely populated (crowded), while others are sparsely populated (empty). The world's population is concentrated in the low-lying coastal areas of the world.

Factors influencing where people live:

Physical factors: climate, land, water, and relief. Human factors: population, culture, and services.

Population density is the number of people living in a given area. It is calculated by dividing the total population by the total area.
