SEMESTER TEST

APRIL 2016

Total: 50 Marks
Time: 90 Minutes

Examiners: Dr HR Bohlmann
Prof MC Breitenbach

ANSWER ALL QUESTIONS

1. Prove that a Cobb-Douglas production function, in which capital and labour each contribute 50% of factor payments, exhibits constant returns to scale. (5)
2. Use the neoclassical theory of distribution to briefly explain how a competitive, profit-maximising firm decides how much of each factor of production to demand. (5)
3. The production model – one of the core components of the Solow growth model – teaches us that differences in living standards are caused by one of two things. Name those two things and indicate which one, according to historical data, is the most important. (5)
4. Briefly describe four factors that may contribute to differences in total factor productivity (TFP) between countries. (5)
5. From your Jones textbook, write down the relevant equations of the Solow growth model for i) the production function, ii) capital accumulation, iii) labour force, iv) resource constraints, and v) allocation of resources. Also indicate what the endogenous variables and parameters are in the system of equations. (15)
6. Draw a well-labelled graph to indicate how the steady state position is determined, starting from a position of too little capital per worker, in the Solow model. (10)
7. Given the implications of the steady-state result in the Solow model, explain how this provided the need and motivation for the development of the Romer endogenous growth model. (5)

Each of the jurisdictions within the United Kingdom is constantly refining the operational characteristics of its planning system and while there are some common practices there are also substantive divergences. In each territory the planning template is shaped within a dynamic political and legal context and thus students and practitioners require an accessible in depth and up to date literature dealing with this matter. The multi disciplinary contributors to this expanded Second Edition of Planning Law and Practice in Northern Ireland explore the progression of planning within the region and discuss prominent facets of contemporary development management, development plans, environmental law, property law and professional practice. Consideration is given to the consequences of Brexit for planning in Northern Ireland, devolved government institutional structures for planning and the post 2015 emergent performance of local authorities in this arena. The book makes an important contribution to the wider literature in this field and with its extensive citing of statutes and cases provides an essential resource for students, planning practitioners and researchers. Errorless 11 Years UPPSC General Studies Prelim Papers 1 & 2 Solved Papers (2010 - 20) 2nd Edition Disha Experts, 2020-02-04 26 Years UPSC IAS/ IPS Prelims Topic-wise Solved Papers 1 & 2 (1995 - 2020) 11th Edition Disha Experts, 2020-01-01

Anthropomorphism and Animism in Advertising Małgorzata Karpińska-Krakowiak, 2025-10-16. Traditionally, advertisers have assumed that anthropomorphism (seeing a product as human) and animism (seeing a product as alive) are identical processes triggering the same consumer responses. This book shows that this assumption is incorrect, often leading to misinterpretations in scholarly studies. Through a series of experiments, it reveals that animism and anthropomorphism are two distinct processes with different causes, consequences, and implications. While anthropomorphism is well studied, animism has been largely overlooked. This book is the first to systematically differentiate the two, providing clear definitions and empirical evidence. It identifies specific advertising tactics that trigger animism versus anthropomorphism and examines their persuasive impact. It explores when and why consumers are more likely to animate or anthropomorphize products. These insights help readers determine which process is more effective for different contexts, services, and product categories. Additionally, the book includes a comprehensive review of existing empirical studies on anthropomorphism, offering a summary of key findings, manipulation techniques, and moderating factors. This resource allows readers to recognize broader patterns in past research and apply them to their work. This novel book offers valuable new insights for scholars across advertising, marketing, and consumer psychology, in particular.

Beyond Academic Learning: First Results from the Survey of Social and Emotional Skills OECD, 2021-09-07. Over the last few years, social and emotional skills have been rising on the education policy agenda and in the public debate. Policy makers and education practitioners are seeking ways to complement the focus on academic learning with attention to social and emotional skill development.

Economic Diversification in the Gulf Region, Volume I Ashraf Mishrif, Yousuf Al Balushi, 2017-12-27 This volume focuses on the role of the private sector in diversifying the economics of Gulf countries in the post petrodollar era when fluctuating and declining oil prices are negatively impacting national expenditures. It explores current policies of countries in the Gulf Cooperation Council and their efforts to shift their economies away from heavy dependence on hydrocarbons. The structural changes will create favorable conditions for the private sector to flourish, shift production dependence from public to private sector and allow for more efficient resource allocation. Such changes will also allow local banks to provide financial support to small and medium enterprises, boost entrepreneurship for job creation and strengthen organizational structure and efficiency. This is the first volume in Economic Diversification in the Gulf Region.
