Growing up Pat O'Brien was the skinny Midwestern kid with the divorced parents and the alcoholic father. He drove himself to the University of South Dakota after finishing his last late night shift and moved in while his roommate was asleep. His life was unceremonious until he was picked up in the student center by a professor who envisioned his future as the household television name he would become. From that day forward Pat's life became anything but ordinary from afternoons in the late Bobby Kennedy's living room with Muhammad Ali to Rangers games in President Bush's suite to the drugs and drinking and party lifestyle of Los Angeles. Over the course of his career Pat has met everyone: the Beatles, the Kennedys, Neil Young and Magic Johnson. In I'll Be Back Right After This Pat reveals the highs and lows of life spent sharing the mic with the world's most rich and famous.
