

Study Guide: Physical and Chemical Oceanography

Effective composition of seawater is determined by:

- 1) primary salinity - given entirely by composition of source water from which seawater formed (mostly, freshwater composition of rainfall composition)
- 2) Evaporation - water leaving through salt by mass, from atmosphere following atmospheric rules, and no evaporation adjustment, resulting in enriched brackish water and saltier seawater
- 3) biological processes - phytoplankton composition, heterotrophy of food through and through, biomineralization, most likely for NaCl from water to shell

Effective salinity and composition in reality:

- 1) Evaporation - water evaporated, leaving salt
- 2) biomineralization - produced from shell, atmospheric, seawater

How temperature and salinity produce density, water volume, negative expansion:

Temperature differences alone cause density:

- 1) warm water is less dense ..... cold water is more dense
- 2) warm, brackish water is floating on a colder, denser water mass
- 3) when the temperature difference principle is the main principle, is referred to as the thermohaline

Salinity differences cause density:

- 1) water with salt is more dense than water with less salt
- 2) water with saltier density, and more density, float on top of water with higher density
- 3) density (overall) increased in salinity as the water increases
- 4) the thermohaline principle is the principle of change in density as the temperature

Evaporation:

How water mass and salt of sea level is changed as it flows through a flow field

Evaporation effects:

on the sea, mass, density, volume, and salt

Evaporation effects: in the evaporation of water, the water is lost, and the salt is left

Evaporation effects: in the evaporation of water, the water is lost, and the salt is left

Evaporation effects: in the evaporation of water, the water is lost, and the salt is left
