Hitchcock's America Jonathan Freedman, Richard Millington, 1999-02-25 Alfred Hitchcock's American films are not only among the most admired works in world cinema they also offer some of our most acute responses to the changing shape of American society in the 1940s 50s and 60s The authors of this anthology show how famous films such as Strangers on a Train Vertigo North by Northwest and Rear Window along with more obscure ones such as Rope The Wrong Man and Family Plot register the ideologies and insurgencies the normative assumptions and the cultural alternatives that shaped these tumultuous decades They argue that just as these films occupy a visual landscape defined by the grand monuments of American civic life Mt Rushmore the Statue of Liberty the United Nations they are also marked by their preoccupation with the social mores and private practices of mid-century America Not only are big city and suburban life the explicit subjects of films like Rear Window and Shadow of a Doubt so are the forms of experience that emerge within these social spaces whether the urban voyeurism examined by the former or the intertwining of banality and violence depicted in the latter Indeed just about every form of American life that was achieving social power at this time the national security state the science and art of psychoanalysis the privileging of the free-wheeling improvisatory self the postwar codification and fissuring of gender roles road culture and its ancillary creation the motel is given detailed critical and mordant examination in Hitchcock's films The Hitchcock who emerges is not merely the inspired technician and psychological excavator that critics of the past two generations have justly hailed he is also a cultural critic of remarkable insight and undeniable prescience

Strangers on a Train Jonathan Goldberg, 2012-11-20 Alfred Hitchcock's 1951 thriller based on the novel of the same name by Patricia Highsmith author of The Talented Mr Ripley is about two men who meet on a train one is a man of high social standing who wishes to divorce his unfaithful wife the other is an enigmatic bachelor with an overbearing father Together they enter into a murder plot that binds them to one another with fatal consequences This Queer Film Classic delves into the homoerotic energy of the film especially between the two male characters played by Farley Granger and Robert Walker. It builds on the question of the sexuality the film puts on view not to ask whether either character is gay so much as to explore the queer relations between sexuality and murder and the strong antisocial impulses those relations represent. The book also includes a look at the making of the film and the critical controversies over Hitchcock's representations of male homosexuality. QUEER FILM CLASSICS is a critically acclaimed film book series that launched in 2009. It features twenty-one of the most important and influential films about and/or by LGBTQ people made in eight different countries between 1950 and 2005 and written by leading LGBTQ film scholars and critics. Jonathan Goldberg is a professor at Emory University where he directs the Studies in Sexualities program. He is the author of many books and editor of Eve Kosofsky Sedgwick's posthumous 2012 book The Weather in Proust. Patricia Highsmith: Selected Novels and Short Stories Patricia Highsmith, 2011. The remarkable renaissance of Patricia Highsmith. Strangers on a Train. The Talented Mr. Ripley continues with the publication of The Highsmith Reader featuring two groundbreaking novels as well as a trove of penetrating short stories. It's a Print! William Reynolds, Elizabeth Ann Trembley, 1994. The mechanistic age of the twentieth century has required a mechanized medium for expression: the production of film dependent from the start on machines such as cameras, projectors, lights, and now more heavily reliant on computers. Sensitive films, miniaturization, and sophisticated sound recording devices have flowered in this century not only as a means of popular entertainment but as a critically acclaimed art form. These essays highlight true cinematic adaptations as completely different products from films based loosely on the gimmick or plot or character of a certain fiction. Nothing That Meets the Eye Patricia Highsmith, 2012-05-28. Highsmith is no more a practitioner of the murder mystery genre than are Dostoevsky, Faulkner, and Camus. Joan Smith, Los Angeles Times. The Patricia Highsmith renaissance continues with Nothing That Meets the Eye, a brilliant collection of twenty-eight psychologically penetrating stories, a great majority of which are published for the first time in this collection. This volume spans almost fifty years of Highsmith's career and establishes her as a permanent member of our American literary canon as attested by recent publication of two of these stories in The New Yorker and Harper's. The stories assembled in Nothing That Meets the Eye, written between 1938 and 1982, are vintage Highsmith: a gigolo-like psychopath preys on unfulfilled career women; a lonely spinster's fragile hold on reality is tethered to the bottle; an estranged postal worker invents homicidal fantasies about his coworkers. While some stories anticipate the diabolical narratives of the Ripley novels, others possess a Capra-like sweetness that forces us to see the author in a new light. From this new collection, a remarkable portrait of the American psyche at mid-century emerges, unforgettably distilled by the inimitable eye of Patricia Highsmith. A New York Times Notable Book and a Washington Post Rave of 2002.
