Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 15 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or other medical problems. The subjects were randomly assigned to a 10-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The control group did not exercise. The subjects were monitored for HR and EE at baseline and at the end of the 10-week program. The results showed that the training program had a significant effect on HR and EE. The HR of the training group decreased significantly from baseline to the end of the 10-week program, while the HR of the control group remained unchanged. The EE of the training group increased significantly from baseline to the end of the 10-week program, while the EE of the control group remained unchanged. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women.
