food on a busy schedule Lucy Vaserfirer's Marinades offers a delicious alternative. With the right marinade you can dress up meats, chicken, fish, or vegetables in the morning, pop the food in the fridge for the day, and finish it all off with a quick broil, grill, microwave, or sauté when you get home. Dinner is served. Vaserfirer, who previously has written Seared to Perfection and Flavored Butters and also writes the blog Hungry Cravings, is a culinary school instructor known for her expertise with meats, her knowledge of kitchen science, and her warm and engaging teaching voice. Marinades shows when to use and not use oil, based, vinegar-based, fruit-based, and milk or cream-based marinades. The recipes range from comforting American, French, and Italian marinades to adventuresome and assertive ideas from Mexico and Latin America, Asia, and beyond. The book includes seventeen recipe chapters, nine of which are based on specific types of marinades: herb, spice, and citrus, for example, and eight of which range geographically across the world's best cuisines. Each of the 200 marinades is accompanied by an additional recipe that shows one way to use it. A Raspberry Zinfandel Marinade, for example, features a recipe for Grilled Raspberry Zinfandel Pork Medallions, while a Souvlaki Marinade has a recipe for Swordfish Souvlaki alongside. In keeping with the popularity of marinades among outdoor cooks, more than half of these 200 additional recipes are for grilled dishes, but there are ideas aplenty for indoor cooking as well.

Mediterranean way is a breeze even on your busiest weeknights Persia and the Persian Question Marquess George Nathaniel Curzon Curzon of Kedleston, 1859-1925 was a British politician, traveler and writer who served as viceroy of India from 1899 to 1905 and foreign secretary from 1919 to 1924. As a young man, he traveled extensively and wrote several books that drew on his travels, including Russia in Central Asia (1889), Persia and the Persian Question (1892), and Problems of the Far East (1894). Persia and the Persian Question presented here is a two-volume work based on a six-month stay in Iran that Curzon began in late 1899 as a correspondent for the London newspaper the Times. The author's intent, as he states in the preface, is to produce the standard work in the English language on the subject. After two introductory chapters, chapters 3-12 document Curzon's visits to and observations concerning different parts of the country, including the journey from Ashkabad (present-day Ashgabat, Turkmenistan) into Iran and stays in Kuchan, Meshed, Khorasan, Seistan, Tehran, and elsewhere. Volume one concludes with individual chapters devoted to the shah and the royal family, the government institutions, and reforms in the northwest and northwestern provinces, the army, and railroads. Volume two begins with another seven chapters (19-25) recounting journeys to different parts of the country, including Isfahan, Shiraz, Bushir (present-day Bushehr), and the eastern, southeastern, and southwestern provinces. The remaining chapters (26-30) deal with the navy, the Persian Gulf, revenue, resources, and manufactures, commerce and trade, and British and Russian policy in Persia. For Curzon, the essence of the Persian question is the rivalry between the Russian and British empires for influence in Persia, which he discusses in detail in the final chapter. This chapter also deals with Persia's two Asiatic neighbors, Afghanistan and the Ottoman Empire, both of which held large tracts of territory that were once included within the Persian dominions. Curzon ends on a hopeful note regarding the future development of the country but cautions patience and warns that colossal schemes for the swift regeneration of Persia will only end in fiasco. He also warns against a dominant role for foreign concessions; Persian capital must be interested in the exploitation of Persian resources for a monopoly of the finance by foreigners excites jealousy and suggests the idea of usurpation. The book includes illustrations and maps.
