Swinfen,2010-10 The past is a country of the mind we wander there like dreamers in a shadowy landscape that hides its meaning from us There are seasons in our lives said Christina a pattern like the old Indian cross within a circle Our lives move round the circle but not always at the same pace You have been caught too long in the north which teaches strength and endurance through suffering In this country of the mind following the cycle of the seasons A Running Tide takes us back and forth between Scotland in 1980 and the tiny fishing village of Flamboro in Maine during 1942 to unravel the compelling story of Tirza Libby Tirza a respected and successful war photographer tries to escape her past by retreating to a remote Scottish island But even thousands of miles and four decades cannot erase the memories of a childhood summer in Maine a community profoundly altered by war a family thrown into conflict and the British airman who changed all their lives A Running Tide tells the story of that fateful summer Tirza has spent a lifetime trying to banish it from her mind but it is not ready to let her go only by revisiting Maine can she solve the mysteries of that past and complete her journey of self discovery In its lyrical portrayal of a courageous but fragile way of life A Running Tide gathers in force and tension as it moves towards tragedy and ultimate resolution Running with Unicorns Charlotte Gibson, 2023-09-18 About the Book

Running with Unicorns What I learned from a lifetime of helping my sister with her mental illness proposes that some brains may function in a unique manner A unicorn is the perfect symbol to depict the strength and power of these individuals The author wanted to keep the flow of text uncluttered and not get drawn into normal thinking and behavior The world wants to make all individuals part of the herd trying to fit them into society as we currently know it trying to cure them so that they will be accepted The question is should they be cured or should we learn how to help them acknowledge their special talents and minimize their fears In 2016 a site called the Secret Unicorn Blog was written by Archie McPhee He says that The unicorn uses its weapons of strength creativity and audacity to instigate change The unicorn does not use the opinions and desires of others to decide what it should do it goes by an inner compass defined by taste decency intelligence and whimsy Chances are if you ve had your world changed by something that something was created by a unicorn About the Author Charlotte Gibson was born in Toronto Canada in 1945 She currently lives in Waterloo Ontario with her husband Barry and their Doberman Bracken They live near their five children and six grandchildren Charlotte loves fitness friends and flower arranging She has an honors B A and an M A in Community Psychology from Wilfrid Laurier University With more than 25 years of service in the non profit world Charlotte Gibson made it her mission in life to help improve the health and quality of life for people in the province of Ontario As President and Chief Executive Officer of The Easter Seal Society Ontario from 1998 to 2005 she was committed to helping children youth and young adults with physical disabilities live independent and rewarding lives She moved to Easter Seals from the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario where she held a variety of positions of increasing responsibility from 1985 to 1998 Demo(s) , 2016-01-01 This book is framed as a dialogue between
