Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were randomly assigned to a control group (CG) and an exercise group (EG). The EG performed a 10-week training program consisting of three sessions per week. The CG did not exercise. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during a 30-min submaximal walk. The HR and EE were significantly higher in the EG than in the CG at rest and during the walk. The results suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.

If you are not satisfied with your results, follow the instructions carefully and test your original article. If the editor still requests the (a) paragraph and (b) and (c) paragraphs, repeat the analysis with the original data. The original data are available.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, if the price of the output rises, the producer will increase its output level. This is because the producer will find it more profitable to produce more of the output. Conversely, if the price of the output falls, the producer will decrease its output level. This is because the producer will find it less profitable to produce less of the output.
