

The image shows the interior of a large, dark stone building, likely a priory. A massive, ribbed stone arch dominates the upper half of the frame, curving from the left towards the right. The arch is constructed from large, dark stone blocks. In the background, a small, arched window with a colorful stained glass design is visible, allowing light to enter the space. The floor is made of large, light-colored stone tiles. The overall atmosphere is dim and historic.
