The Sunlight Zone is the top layer of the ocean, stretching from the surface down to about 200 meters (656 feet). It gets the most sunlight, making it warm and full of life. Plants like seaweed and tiny phytoplankton create food for many animals, including fish, dolphins, and sharks. Since the sun's light and heat come from the surface, many animals need to come to the surface to breathe or through their blowholes. They also rely on sunlight to see prey and communicate with each other using clicks and whistles. Dolphins eat fish, squid, and crustaceans like shrimp and crabs.

Many ocean animals, like jellyfish, and some come in and out of the water.
