

NIKOLA TESLA

A photograph of a Tesla coil. The top terminal is a large, cylindrical, blue-painted metal cap. Below it, a series of thin, concentric metal rings are visible. A bright, orange-yellow spark discharge is occurring between the top terminal and the lower rings, creating a complex, branching pattern of light. The entire assembly is housed within a large, clear glass bulb. In the background, a glowing orange light source is visible on the right side.
