types that goes substantially beyond the traditional distinction between major and minor clause types. It draws on insights from linguistics, philosophy and sociology and may be used as a textbook for undergraduate or graduate courses in semantics, pragmatics and morphosyntax. English as a Lingua Franca among Adolescents Katharina Beuter, 2023-07-04. This volume is not only the first book-length investigation into adolescents' use of English as a Lingua Franca (ELF); it also explores ELF in an African-European context, which has received little attention in ELF research so far. The book examines the interplay between language, culture and identity in adolescents' ELF interactions. It combines quantitative and qualitative approaches to explore strategies secondary school students employ in a German-Tanzanian student exchange in order to reach their communicative goals. Introducing and drawing on the TeenELF corpus, the book investigates the speaker and situation-specific potential of repetition and repair, complimenting laughter and humour as well as various practices of translanguaging. The study reveals ELF as a transcultural space in which different linguacultural influences meet and merge while meaning, rapport and identity are interactionally negotiated. In the face of an increasing interest in ELF-informed pedagogy, the present approach investigates the communicative needs and competences of school students and derives both theoretical as well as classroom implications from its linguistic findings.
