business, and being the most common small business consideration of the success of an individual manager. Finally, having more and better information really makes those managers do better. Furthermore, about 70% of small firms in private companies in the United States do not have a private management information system (MIS) installed. For the rest, most information is gathered by the management in one of two particular patterns: (1) gathering in the regular manner and (2) gathering in the irregular manner. Some small businesses are better at the first.
