Reidy, 2016-02-19 Physicist John Tyndall and his contemporaries were at the forefront of developing the cosmology of scientific naturalism during the Victorian period. They rejected all but physical laws as having any impact on the operations of human life and the universe. Contributors focus on the way Tyndall and his correspondents developed their ideas through letters, periodicals, and scientific journals, and challenge previously held assumptions about who gained authority and how they attained and defended their position within the scientific community.

Reading as a Philosophical Practice Robert Piercey,2020-12-15 Reading as a Philosophical Practice asks why reading everyday reading for pleasure matters so profoundly to so many people Its answer is that reading is an implicitly philosophical activity To passionate readers it is a way of working through and taking a stand on certain fundamental questions about who and what we are how we should live and how we relate to other things The book examines the lessons that the activity of reading seems to teach about selfhood morality and ontology and it tries to clarify the sometimes paradoxical claims that serious readers have made about it To do so it proposes an original theoretical framework based on Virginia Woolf s notion of the common reader and Alasdair MacIntyre s conception of practice It also asks whether reading can continue to play this role as paper is replaced by electronic screens Conserving Cultural Landscapes Ken Taylor,Archer St. Clair,Nora J. Mitchell,2014-09-19 New approaches to both cultural landscapes and historic urban landscapes increasingly recognize the need to guide future change rather than simply protecting the fabric of the past Challenging traditional notions of historic preservation Conserving Cultural Landscapes takes a dynamic multifaceted approach to conservation It builds on the premise that a successful approach to urban and cultural landscape conservation recognizes cultural as well as natural values sustains traditional connections to place and engages people in stewardship where they live and work It brings together academics within the humanities and humanistic social sciences conservation and preservation professionals practitioners and stakeholders to rethink the meaning and practice of cultural heritage conservation encourage international cooperation and stimulate collaborative research and scholarship Communicating Climate Science - HC 254 Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Select Committee on Science and Technology,Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Science and Technology Committee,Andrew Miller,2014-04-02 The Government is failing to clearly and effectively communicate climate science to the public There is little evidence of coordination amongst Government government agencies and public bodies on communicating climate science despite various policies at national and regional level to mitigate and adapt to climate change The mandate to act on climate can only be maintained if the electorate are convinced that the Government is acting on the basis of strong scientific evidence Ministers therefore need to do more to demonstrate that is the case and consistently reflect the Government approach in all their communications especially with the media The report also criticises the BBC for its reporting on the issue It points out that BBC News teams continue to make mistakes in their coverage of climate science by giving opinions and scientific fact the same weight The BBC is called to develop clear editorial guidelines for all commentators and presenters on the facts of climate that should be used to challenge statements from either side of the climate policy debate that stray too far from the scientific facts It is important that climate science is presented separately from any subsequent policy response Government should work with the learned societies and national academies to develop a source of information on climate science that is discrete from policy delivery comprehensible to the general public and responsive to both current developments and uncertainties in the science Religion and Sustainability: Interreligious Resources, Interdisciplinary Responses Rita D. Sherma,Purushottama Bilimoria,2022-05-09 This volume brings sustainability studies into creative and constructive conversation with actions practices and worldviews from religion and theology supportive of the vision and work of the UN SDGs It features more than 30 chapters from scholars across diverse disciplines including economics ethics theology sociology ritual studies and visual culture This interdisciplinary content presents new insights for inhibiting ecospheric devastation which is inextricably linked to unsustainable financial societal racial geopolitical and cultural relationships The chapters show how humanistic elements can enable the establishment of sustainable ways of thinking feeling and acting This
