

1. Introduction

In this experiment we will investigate the frictional forces inherent in laminar and turbulent pipe flow. A reasonable estimate of the coefficient of friction (friction factor) can be determined by measuring pressure drop and flow rate through a pipe. Laminar and turbulent flow are the two flow scenarios that will be investigated. The experimentally determined coefficient of friction values will then be shown on the Moody chart and compared to established results.

2. Theory

Fluids lose energy when they flow through pipes and fittings owing to friction between the fluid and the pipe's surface. The significant head loss owing to pipe flow and smaller losses due to flow via fittings, valves, bends, and other components are the two main elements in calculating the head loss.

3. Apparatus

- Pipes
- Water and mercury manometers
- Flow rate measuring devices
