China North Africa and Australia Yet this approach did not have disastrous consequences until the advent of western industrialization As a phenomenological hermeneutics of human societies environmental relation to nature the book draws on Heideggerian ontology and Veblen's sociology It provides a powerful distinction between two attitudes to landscape the tacit knowledge of earlier peoples engaged in creating the landscape through their work landscaping thought and the explicit theoretical and aesthetic attitudes of modern city dwellers who love nature while belonging to a civilization that destroys the landscape landscape thinking This book gives a critical survey of landscape thought and theory for students researchers and anyone interested in human societies relation to nature in the fields of landscape studies environmental philosophy cultural geography and environmental history Geographers Patrick H. Lillis, 2018-10-11 Aby Warburg's Mnemosyne Atlas 1925-1929 is a prescient work of mixed media assemblage made up of hundreds of images culled from antiquity to the Renaissance and arranged into startling juxtapositions Warburg's allusive atlas sought to illuminate the pains of his final years after he had suffered a breakdown and been institutionalized It continues to influence contemporary artists today including Gerhard Richter and Mark Dion In this illustrated exploration of Warburg and his great work Georges Didi Huberman leaps from Mnemosyne Atlas into a set of musings on the relation between suffering and knowledge in Western thought and on the creative results of associative thinking Deploying writing that delights in dramatic jump cuts reminiscent of Warburg's idiosyncratic juxtapositions and drawing on a set of sources that ranges from ancient Babylon to Walter Benjamin Atlas or the Anxious Gay Science is rich in Didi Huberman's trademark combination of elan and insight

Visual and Linguistic Representations of Places of Origin Maria Pia Pozzato, 2017-12-05 This book is about the representations both visual and linguistic which people give of their own places of origin It examines the drawings of interviewees who were asked to draw their own place of origin on a white A3 sheet using pencil or colour according to their choice. If they were born in a place they did not remember because they moved in when they were very small, they could draw the place they did remember as the scenario of their early childhood. The drawings are examined from three different perspectives: semiotics, cognitive psychology, and geography. The semiotic instruments are used to describe how each person reconstructs a complex image of his/her childhood place and how they translate their own memories from one language to another, e.g., from drawing to verbal story, trying to approach what they want to express in the best possible way. The cognitive psychological point of view helps clarify the emotional world of the interviewees and their motivations during the process of reconstruction and expression of their childhood experiences. The geographical conceptualizations concern a cultural level and provide insight into the cartographic models that inspire the maps people drew. One of the main findings was the influence from cultural codes, as demonstrated in the fact that most of the US students interviewed drew their maps showing considerable cartographic expertise in comparison to their European counterparts.

Piaget's Theory Harry Beilin, Peter B. Pufall, 2013-04-15. This volume marks the 20th Anniversary Symposium of the Jean Piaget Society. Some of the American contributors were among the first to introduce Piaget to developmental and educational psychology in the United States, while some of the international contributors worked with Piaget to develop his program of genetic epistemology and continue to make significant contributions to it. Within this volume, the possibility of Piaget's paradigm is reviewed not only as the stuff of normal science, yielding fascinating empirical questions that linger within it, but also, and more importantly, as the stuff of revolutionary science with continuing potential to comprehensively structure our thinking about developmental theory. The constructive contribution Piaget's theory has for developmental theory emerges as four central themes in the volume: understanding the intentional or semantic aspect of mental life without abandoning the Piagetian assumption that is rational and committed to truth testing; examining mental life and its development as a dialectical relation of function and structure; a relation Piaget introduced in his study of the developmental relation between procedural and operational knowledge; exploring new and interdisciplinary perspectives on equilibration as the driving force of constructive adaptive processes; understanding social and historical forces in individual and cultural development not necessarily as forces antithetical to Piaget's perspective but as forces that take on new meaning within his framework, which avoids erroneous dichotomies such as the distinction between subjective and objective knowledge.

Wrong-Doing, Truth-Telling Michel Foucault, 2014-06-04. Three years before his death, Michel Foucault delivered a series of lectures at the Catholic University of Louvain that until recently remained almost unknown. These lectures, which focus on the role of avowal or confession in the determination of truth and justice, provide the missing link between Foucault's early work on madness, delinquency, and sexuality and his later explorations of subjectivity in Greek and Roman antiquity. Ranging broadly from Homer to the twentieth century, Foucault traces the early use of truth-telling in ancient Greece and follows it through to practices of self-examination in monastic times. By the nineteenth century, the avowal of wrongdoing was no longer sufficient to satisfy the call for justice; there remained the question of who the criminal was and what formative factors contributed to his wrong doing The call for psychiatric expertise marked the birth of the discipline of psychiatry in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries as well as its widespread recognition as the foundation of criminology and modern criminal justice Published here for the first time the 1981 lectures have been superbly translated by Stephen W Sawyer and expertly edited and extensively annotated by Fabienne Brion and Bernard E Harcourt They are accompanied by two contemporaneous interviews with Foucault in which he elaborates on a number of the key themes An essential companion to Discipline and Punish Wrong Doing Truth Telling will take its place as one of the most significant works of Foucault to appear in decades and will be necessary reading for all those interested in his thought

Cognitive Semiotics Claudio Paolucci, 2021-02-01 This volume serves as a reference on the field of cognitive semantics It offers a systematic and original discussion of the issues at the core of the debate in semiotics and the cognitive sciences It takes into account the problems of representation the nature of mind the structure of perception beliefs associated with habits social cognition autism intersubjectivity and subjectivity The chapters in this volume present the foundation of semiotics as a theory of cognition offer a semiotic model of cognitive integration that combines Enactivism and the Extended Mind Theory and investigate the role of imagination as the origin of perception The author develops an account of beliefs that are associated with habits and meaning grounded in Pragmatism testing his Narrative Practice Semiotic Hypothesis on persons with autism spectrum disorders He also integrates his ideas about the formation of the theory of mind with a theory of subjectivity understood as self consciousness which derives from semiotic cognitive abilities This text appeals to students professors and researchers in the field
