

The background of the book cover features a close-up of a man's bare, muscular chest and shoulders. A woman with long, dark, wavy hair is positioned in the lower-left foreground, her head tilted down and to the right. Her hand is gently touching the man's chest. The overall lighting is warm and intimate. In the upper-left corner, there is a faint, stylized illustration of a city skyline at night with glowing windows and a bridge.

Owning Land, Being Women Amrita Mondal, 2021-04-06 Owning Land Being Women enquires into the processes that establish inheritance as a unique form of property relation in law and society It focuses on India examining the legislative processes that led to the 2005 amendment of the Hindu Succession Act 1956 along with several interconnected welfare policies Scholars have understood these Acts as a response to growing concerns about women s property rights in developing countries In re reading these Acts and exploring the wider nexus of Indian society in which the legislation was drafted this study considers how questions of family structure and property rights contribute to the creation of legal subjects and demonstrates the significance of the politico economic context of rights formulation On the basis of an ethnography of a village in West Bengal this book brings the moral axis of inheritance into sharp focus elucidating the interwoven dynamics of bequest distribution of family wealth and reciprocity of care work that are integral to the logic of inheritance It explains why inheritance rights based on the notion of individual property rights are inadequate to account for practices of inheritance Mondal shows that inheritance includes normative structures of affective attachment and expectations i.e. evaluatively charged imaginaries of the future that coordinate present practices. These insights pose questions of the dominant resource based conceptualisation of inherited property in the debate on women's empowerment. In doing so, this work opens up a line of investigation that brings feminist rights discourse into conversation with ethics, enriching the liberal theory of gender justice.

A Genre of Her Own Gayathri Prabhu, 2025-04-30

A Genre of Her Own offers an alternative account of literary beginnings in modern India through a surprising range of self-fashioning by women in genres such as pamphlets, letters, travelogues, essays, autobiographies, and novels. Paying close attention to style and intentionality, this study traces mixed affective notes of pride, despair, lament, nostalgia, anger, hope, and celebration in texts written in Marathi, Bengali, Urdu, and English. These include Savitribai Phule's Kavya (1854), Tarabai Shinde's Stri Purush Tulana (1882), Anandibai Joshee's letters (1883, 1884), Rukhmabai's Reply (1887), Krupabai Satthianadhan's Saguna (1888), Rash Sundari Debi's Amar Jiban (1897), Swarnakumari Debi Ghosal's Kahake (1898), Dosebai Cowasjee Jessawalla's The Story of My Life (1911), Binodini Das's Amar Katha (1912), and Atiya Fyzee's Zamana i Tahsil (1921). These writers crafted a full-fledged introspective and formally sophisticated aesthetic in conversation with a normatively male literary milieu. In doing so, they overtly engaged with the centrality of writing, the dangers and securities involved against an emerging proscenium of world literature. The narrative motifs encompass marriage and motherhood, domestic labour and caretaking, romance and sexuality, public service, and intellectual prowess, religious quests, and scrambles for livelihood, illness, and aging, and often in the mode of wit, vigour, and ingenuity.

East-West Montage Sheng-mei Ma, 2007-11-06

East-West Montage possesses a unique vision that promises to push discussions of globalization, cultural production, ethnic identity, and bodily metaphors in powerful new directions. Ma is to be praised for his sound scholarship and innovative interpretations. Indeed, where others specialize in either the collection of details or the unpacking of text, Ma weaves a strong analytic exegesis rooted in thorough research.

Richard King, Washington State University

Approximately twelve hours difference lies between New York and Beijing. The West and the East are literally night and day apart. Yet East-West Montage crosscuts the two in the manner of adjacent filmic shots to accentuate their montage-like complementarity. It examines the intersection between East and West, the Asian diaspora, or more specifically, Asian bodies in diaspora and the cultural expressions by and about people of Asian descent on both sides of the Pacific. Following the introduction, Establishing Shots, the book is divided into seven intercuts which in turn subdivide into dialectically paired chapters focusing on specific body parts or attributes. The range of material examined is broad and rich: the iconography of the opium den in film noir, the writings of Asian American novelists, the swordplay and kung fu film.

Japanese anime the Korean Wave including soap operas like Winter Sonata and the cult thriller Oldboy Rogers and Hammerstein s Orientalist musicals the comic Blackhawk the superstar status of the Dalai Lama and the demise of Hmong refugees and Chinese retirees in the U S Highly original and immensely readable East West Montage will appeal to many working in a range of disciplines including Asian studies Asian American studies cultural studies ethnic studies film studies popular culture and literary criticism

Anonymous in Their Own Names Susan Henry,2021-04-30 Anonymous in Their Own Names recounts the lives of three women who while working as their husbands uncredited professional partners had a profound and enduring impact on the media in the first half of the twentieth century With her husband Edward L Bernays Doris E Fleischman helped found and form the field of public relations Ruth Hale helped her husband Heywood Broun become one of the most popular and influential newspaper columnists of the 1920s and 1930s In 1925 Jane Grant and her husband Harold Ross started the New Yorker magazine Yet these women s achievements have been invisible to countless authors who have written about their husbands This invisibility is especially ironic given that all three were feminists who kept their birth names when they married as a sign of their equality with their husbands then battled the government and societal norms to retain their names Hale and Grant so believed in this cause that in 1921 they founded the Lucy Stone League to help other women keep their names and Grant and Fleischman revived the league in 1950 This was the same year Grant and her second husband William Harris founded White Flower Farm pioneering at that time and today one of the country's most celebrated commercial nurseries Despite strikingly different personalities the three women were friends and lived in overlapping immensely stimulating New York City circles Susan Henry explores their pivotal roles in their husbands extraordinary success and much more including their problematic marriages and their strategies for overcoming barriers that thwarted many of their contemporaries
