Gonzales,2016 Over two million of the nation s eleven million undocumented immigrants have lived in the United States since childhood Due to a broken immigration system they grow up to uncertain futures In Lives in Limbo Roberto G Gonzales introduces us to two groups the college goers like Ricardo whose good grades and strong network of community support propelled him into higher education only to land in a factory job a few years after graduation and the early exiters like Gabriel who failed to make meaningful connections in high school and started navigating dead end jobs immigration checkpoints and a world narrowly circumscribed by legal limitations This ethnography asks why highly educated undocumented youth ultimately share similar work and life outcomes with their less educated peers even as higher education is touted as the path to integration and success in America Gonzales bookends his study with discussions of how the prospect of immigration reform especially the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals DACA program could impact the lives of these young Americans Provided by publisher Academy, with which are Incorporated Literature and the English Review,1883 Distributed Learning and Virtual Librarianship Sharon G.
