Federal Register, 2012-06 How We Teach Science John L. Rudolph, 2019-06-01 Despite an enduring belief that science should be taught there has been no enduring consensus about how or why This is especially true when it comes to teaching scientific process John Rudolph shows that how we think about and teach science will either sustain or thwart future innovation and determine how science is perceived by the public Technical Memorandum, 1951 Chiefly translations from foreign aeronautical journals Chemical News and Journal of Physical Science, 1894 The Chemical News and Journal of Physical Science, 1904 The Atomic West Bruce W. Hevly, John M. Findlay, 2011-12-01 The Manhattan Project the World War II race to produce an atomic bomb transformed the entire country in myriad ways but it did not affect each region equally Acting on an enduring perception of the American West as an empty place the U S government located a disproportionate number of nuclear facilities particularly the ones most likely to spread pollution in western states The Manhattan Project manufactured plutonium at Hanford Washington designed and assembled bombs at Los Alamos New Mexico and detonated the world's first atomic bomb at Alamogordo New Mexico on June 16 1945 In the years that followed the war the U S Atomic Energy Commission selected additional western sites for its work Many westerners initially welcomed the atom Like federal officials they too regarded their region as empty or underdeveloped Facilities to make test and base atomic weapons sites to store nuclear waste and even nuclear power plants were regarded as assets By the 1960s and 1970s however regional attitudes began to change At a variety of locales ranging from Eskimo Alaska to Mormon Utah westerners devoted themselves to resisting the atom and its effects on their environments and communities Just as the atomic age had dawned in the American West so its artificial sun began to set there The Atomic West brings together contributions from several disciplines to explore the impact on the West of the development of atomic power from wartime secrecy and initial postwar enthusiasm to public doubts and protest in the 1970s and 1980s An impressive example of the benefits of interdisciplinary studies on complex topics The Atomic West advances our understanding of both regional history and the history of science and does so with human communities as a significant focal point The book will be of special interest to students and experts on the American West environmental history and the history of science and technology Resources in Education, 1988-12 New Trends in the History of Science, 2024-12-09 We Could Not Fail Richard Paul, Steven Moss, 2015-05-01 The Space Age began just as the struggle for civil rights forced Americans to confront the long and bitter legacy of slavery discrimination and violence against African Americans Presidents John F Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson utilized the space program as an agent for social change using federal equal employment opportunity laws to open workplaces at NASA and NASA contractors to African Americans while creating thousands of research and technology jobs in the Deep South to ameliorate poverty We Could Not Fail tells the inspiring largely unknown story of how shooting for the stars helped to overcome segregation on earth Richard Paul and Steven Moss profile ten pioneer African American space workers whose stories illustrate the role NASA and the space program played in promoting civil rights They recount how these technicians mathematicians engineers and an astronaut candidate surmounted barriers to move in some cases literally from the cotton fields to the launching pad The authors vividly describe what it was like to be the sole African American in a NASA work group and how these brave and determined men also helped to transform Southern society by integrating colleges patenting new inventions holding elective office and reviving and governing defunct towns Adding new names to the roster of civil rights heroes and a new chapter to the story of space exploration We Could Not Fail demonstrates how African Americans broke the color barrier by competing successfully at the highest level of American intellectual and technological achievement Guide to U.S. Government Publications Donna Batten,2001 From Medical Chemistry to Biochemistry Robert E. Kohler,1982-05-31 This penetrating case study of institution building and entrepreneurship in science shows how a minor medical speciality evolved into a large and powerful academic discipline Drawing extensively on little used archival sources the author analyses in detail how biomedical science became a central part of medical training and practice The book shows how biochemistry was defined as a distinct discipline by the programmatic vision of individual biochemists and of patrons and competitors in related disciplines It shows how discipline builders used research programmes as strategies that they adapted to the opportunities offered by changing educational markets and national medical reform movements in the United States Britain and Germany The author argues that the priorities and styles of various departments and schools of biochemistry reflect systematic social relationships between that discipline and biology chemistry and medicine Science is shaped by its service roles in particular local contexts This is the central theme The author's view of the political economy of modern science will be of interest to historians and social scientists scientific and medical practitioners and anyone interested in the ecology of knowledge in scientific institutions and professions Restructuring Of Physical
