Royal Nursing Literacy And Numeracy Test:

Getting into Nursing Karen Elcock, 2015-05-15 This book helps potential nursing students succeed in getting into nursing. It gives practical help on the application process, filling out application forms, passing numeracy and literacy tests, and succeeding at interviews. It also explains what nurses do, what personal qualities are needed, and what is involved in nursing training, so applicants can decide whether nursing is really for them. This book has been carefully shaped to answer all of the common questions applicants are likely to have, along with many they will not yet have thought of. It has been updated in light of the recommendations in the Francis Report and covers values-based recruitment, the importance of compassion in practice, and considers the needs of non-traditional applicants and mature students. Features of the book include practice numeracy and literacy tests to help students face their interview day with confidence, all the information students need given in one place with no need to trawl through countless websites looking for answers to questions, helpful advice on choosing the right course and succeeding in the application, top tips and stories from real nurses, students, patients, and lecturers that explore from the inside what nursing is like, example interviews to help students prepare for the big day.

Science is a way of knowing about the world. At once a process, a product and an institution, science enables people to both engage in the construction of new knowledge as well as use information to achieve desired ends. Access to science, whether using knowledge or creating it, necessitates some level of familiarity with the enterprise and practice of science. We refer to this as science literacy. Science literacy is desirable not only for individuals but also for the health and well being of communities and society. More than just basic knowledge of science facts, contemporary definitions of science literacy have expanded to include understandings of scientific processes and practices, familiarity with how science and scientists work, a capacity to weigh and evaluate the products of science and an ability to engage in civic decisions about
