| 6.5.3 Forces and elasticity                              | Explain why work done against the frictional forces acting on an object causes a rise in the temperature of the object                                                      |   |   |   |
|                                                          | Describe examples of the forces involved in stretching, bending or compressing an object                                                                                    |   |   |   |
|                                                          | Explain why, to change the shape of an object (by stretching, bending or compressing), more than one force has to be applied – this is limited to stationary objects only   |   |   |   |
|                                                          | Describe the difference between elastic deformation and inelastic deformation caused by stretching forces                                                                   |   |   |   |
|                                                          | Describe the extension of an elastic object below the limit of proportionality and calculate it by recalling and applying the equation: [ $F = ke$ ]                        |   |   |   |
|                                                          | Explain why a change in the shape of an object only happens when more than one force is applied                                                                             |   |   |   |
|                                                          | Describe and interpret data from an investigation to explain possible causes of a linear and non-linear relationship between force and extension                            |   |   |   |
|                                                          | Calculate work done in stretching (or compressing) a spring (up to the limit of proportionality) by applying, but not recalling, the equation: [ $E_e = \frac{1}{2}ke^2$ ]  |   |   |   |
|                                                          | Required practical 10: Investigate the relationship between force and extension for a spring.                                                                        |   |   |   |
