

General wave properties

Waves transfer energy without transferring matter; particles oscillate about a fixed point.

- Amplitude – the distance from the equilibrium position to the maximum displacement
- Wavelength – the distance between a point on one wave and the same point on the next wave
- Frequency – the number of waves that pass a single point per second
- Speed – the distance travelled by a wave each second

- Speed is related to frequency and wavelength
by: $speed = frequency \times wavelength$ $v = f\lambda$

Types of waves:

- Transverse waves
 - Has peaks and troughs
 - Vibrations are at right angles to the direction of travel
 - An example is light
- Longitudinal waves
 - Consists of compressions (particles pushed together) and rarefactions (particles moved apart)
 - Vibrations are in the same direction as the direction of travel
 - An example is sound

A wavefront is a surface containing points affected in the same way by a wave at a given time such as crests or troughs.

Reflection:

- Waves reflect off smooth, plane surfaces rather than getting absorbed
 - Angle of incidence = angle of reflection
- Rough surfaces scatter the light in all directions, so they appear matte and unreflective
- Frequency, wavelength, and speed are all unchanged

Refraction:

- The speed of a wave changes when it enters a new medium
- If the wave enters a more optically dense medium, its speed decreases and it bends towards the normal
- If the wave enters a less optically dense medium, its speed increases and it bends away from the normal
- In all cases, the frequency stays the same but the wavelength changes.

Diffraction:

- Waves spread out when they go around the sides of an obstacle or through a gap
- The narrower the gap or the greater the wavelength, the more the diffraction
- Frequency, wavelength, and speed are all unchanged
