1. What were some of the nice things people wrote?
2. What similarities did you see in what people wrote?
3. How did the fact that this activity was anonymous help you to be honest?
4. Do you offer positive comments to people very often?
5. What feelings did you have when people were writing on your paper cape?
6. What feelings did you have while your statements were being read aloud or while you were reading your comments that others had written?

Positive Paper Capes

You Will Need:

- Large A2 piece of paper (1 per child)
- Marking tape
- Felt tip pens
- Tuning-in Sheet

Method

1. Give each child a large piece of paper, a felt tip pen and two long pieces of marking tape.
2. Ask each child to write their name at the top of the paper.
3. Have the children attach the papers to each other's shoulders so that they hang down like capes on their backs.
4. Encourage the children to stand and circulate so that each person in the group can write something positive about each other on their specific paper capes.
5. When each child has several statements written on their cape, ask the whole group to sit down in a circle and go around the circle asking children to read their statements or have them exchange their paper capes and read them to each other.
6. Encourage children to save (and laminate) their paper capes. They may like to hang their cape up at home and use it as a prompt for their bedtime talks (with their adults' permission).
