

the level plug – unscrew the level plug (see illustration).

Caution: Do not remove the drain plug by mistake.

15 Start the engine and allow it to idle. With the engine running, retain the drain plug then slacken and remove the level plug and sealing washer.

Warning: The fluid will be hot, take precautions against scalding.

16 If there is sufficient fluid in the transmission unit, fluid should trickle out the centre of the drain plug before slowing to a drip. Note: If no fluid trickles out, or just a few drips appear when the plug is removed, the fluid level is too low. Refit the level plug then switch off the engine. Add a further 0.5 litre of fluid to the transmission then refit the filler plug and repeat the check (see paragraphs 3 to 5).

17 Once the flow of fluid stops, the level is correct. Fit a new sealing washer to the level plug then refit the plug and tighten it to the specified torque. Switch off the engine.

19 Rear brake shoe condition check

1 Check the front wheels then jack up the rear of the vehicle and support it on axle stands (see Jacking and vehicle support).

2 For a quick check, the thickness of friction material remaining on one of the brake shoes can be measured through the slot in the brake backplate that is exposed by prising out its sealing grommet (see illustrations). If a rod of the same diameter as the specified minimum thickness is placed against the shoe friction material, the amount of wear can quickly be assessed – a small mirror may help observation. If any shoe's friction material is worn to the specified thickness or less, all four shoes must be renewed as a set. Note: If any shoe is approaching the minimum thickness, consider renewal as a precautionary measure in case the shoes wear out before the next service.

3 For a comprehensive check, the brake drums should be removed and cleaned. This will permit the wheel cylinders to be checked and the condition of the brake drum itself to be fully examined. Refer to Chapter 9 for further information.

18.14b Transmission fluid drain plug (1) and oil level plug (2) – from RPO no. 09857

20 Handbrake check and adjustment

Refer to Chapter 9.

21 Fuel filter renewal

Warning: Before carrying out the following operation, refer to the precautions given in 'Safety first' at the beginning of this manual, and follow them implicitly. Petrol is a highly-dangerous and volatile liquid, and the precautions necessary when handling it cannot be overstressed.

1 The fuel filter is situated underneath the rear of the vehicle, on the side of the fuel tank. To gain access to the filter, check the front wheels then jack up the rear of the car and support it on axle stands (see Jacking and vehicle support).

2 Seal off the fuel hoses leading to and from the filter, using proprietary hose clamps, with rounded jaws – do not use G-clamps, self-locking grips, or similar with flat or square jaws as these could damage the hose internally, causing leakage later.

3 Unclip the filter retaining strap from the fuel tank (see illustration).

4 Noting the direction of the arrow marked on the filter body, release the quick-release fittings and disconnect the fuel hoses from the filter.

5 Remove the filter from the car. Dispose of the old filter safely; it will be highly flammable, and may explode if thrown on a fire.

6 Slide the new filter into position and clip the filter strap back onto the fuel tank. Ensure that the arrow on the filter body is pointing in the direction of the fuel flow, as noted when removing the old filter. The flow direction can otherwise be determined by tracing the fuel hoses back along their length.

7 Connect the fuel hoses to the filter by pressing each hose onto its respective filter port until it 'snaps' into position. Remove the hose clamps.

8 Start the engine, check the filter hose connections for leaks, then lower the vehicle to the ground.
