

Observing Human Traits Lab

How much do you vary in your observations?

Traits are physical characteristics you inherit from your parents. In this investigation, you will use an inventory of your observable traits and compare yours to the characteristics table of your classmates. Record these differences and frequency of characteristics for these investigations.

Observing your nose traits:

a. This graphic shows 3 noses across different heights of nostrils traits. Each one takes from two different traits. Study the chart below that shows the procedure on why.

b. Working with a partner, observe each other's traits for characteristics of inheritance. Circle your total of each characteristic. Circle in RED. For finger hole, record your frequency with handwriting of your trait shape. Circle finger hole.
