Breznitz,2014-07-30 Today universities around the world find themselves going beyond the traditional roles of research and teaching to drive the development of local economies through collaborations with industry At a time when regions with universities are seeking best practices among their peers Shiri M Breznitz argues against the notion that one university s successful technology transfer model can be easily transported to another Rather the impact that a university can have on its local economy must be understood in terms of its idiosyncratic internal mechanisms as well as the state and regional markets within which it operates To illustrate her argument Breznitz undertakes a comparative analysis of two universities Yale and Cambridge and the different outcomes of their attempts at technology commercialization in biotech By contrasting these two universities their unique policies organizational structure institutional culture and location within distinct national polities she makes a powerful case for the idea that technology transfer is dependent on highly variable historical and environmental factors Breznitz highlights key features to weigh and engage in developing future university and economic development policies that are tailor made for their contexts 2012-2013 College Admissions Data Sourcebook Midwest Edition ,

Statistical Mechanics for Athermal Fluctuation Kiyoshi Kanazawa,2017-11-20 The author investigates athermal fluctuation from the viewpoints of statistical mechanics in this thesis Stochastic methods are theoretically very powerful in describing fluctuation of thermodynamic quantities in small systems on the level of a single trajectory and have been recently developed on the basis of stochastic thermodynamics This thesis proposes for the first time a systematic framework to describe athermal fluctuation developing stochastic thermodynamics for non Gaussian processes while thermal fluctuations are mainly addressed from the viewpoint of Gaussian stochastic processes in most of the conventional studies First the book provides an elementary introduction to the stochastic processes and stochastic thermodynamics The author derives a Langevin like equation with non Gaussian noise as a minimal stochastic model for athermal systems and its analytical solution by developing systematic expansions is shown as the main result Furthermore the a uthor shows a thermodynamic framework for such non Gaussian fluctuations and studies some thermodynamics phenomena i e heat conduction and energy pumping which shows distinct characteristics from conventional thermodynamics The theory introduced in the book would be a systematic foundation to describe dynamics of athermal fluctuation quantitatively and to analyze their thermodynamic properties on the basis of stochastic methods
