Participation in Higher Education Great Britain. National Audit Office,2008 Some progress is being made in encouraging under represented groups to continue into higher education but particular sections of society remain significantly under represented and too little is known about the link between measures taken by institutions and any improvements in access The attainment of qualifications at secondary school is the principal reason for the difference in participation rates but social class remains a strong determinant of higher education participation Women are better represented than men and those from non white ethnic groups are better represented than white people The report finds that white people from lower socio economic groups are the most under represented group in higher education institutions There are also significant variations between academic institutions in how good they are at widening participation In 2006 07 one sixth of institutions made less progress than expected in recruiting students from areas with low participation Those that became universities post 1992 generally do better than the Russell Group universities an association of 20 self selected major research intensive institutions Incomplete data on student background hinders accurate assessment of which groups are under represented There is insufficient information about the full range of activities aimed at widening participation making it difficult to identify which activities are most effective Higher education is not always provided in ways that make it accessible to individuals from under represented groups Some students and potential students have limited understanding of the different types of financial support available to them The Department for Innovation Universities and Skills should lead efforts to create a comprehensive and accessible source of information to support potential applicants from under represented groups

British-born Black African Youth and Educational Social Capital Alganesh Messele,2020-11-29 This book examines the extent to which British born Black African youth have access to opportunities and support during their pre school primary school and secondary school years Through the voice of British born Black African youth this book explores why and how some racial ethnic and linguistic minority students fail academically while students from other linguistic minorities excel despite coming from similar socio economic backgrounds Drawing on interpretive qualitative research analysis the author demonstrates the racial dimension of social capital in education that challenges the traditional social capital theory which recodes structural notions of racial inequality as primarily cultural social and human capital processes and interactions In contrast to the focus on achievement gaps the concept of opportunity gaps shows how and why language policies have shaped the educational experiences and outcomes of linguistic minority students This book will be of interest to policy makers practitioners and scholars of Multicultural Education Black and African Diaspora Studies and Educational Sociology and learn more about what the schools are like than the youngsters and their parents could learn in a campus visit or standard guidebook. The book does a great job presenting a wealth of information in a diverse array of voices. Student readers will no doubt feel that the reviewers quoted in the book shared many of their questions and concerns as students and parents are likely to appreciate the frankness of the reviewers' comments as well. Excerpts from the book: My college counselor also had good relationships with college admissions officers and was able to update me on how they'd reacted to my applications. In the end I applied to Harvard, MIT, Stanford, Harvey Mudd, and Caltech, California Institute of Technology, and I got into all of them, so I was happy with my college counselor's efforts and the efforts of the CCO as a whole in promoting my application as well as in helping me decide where I wanted to go. MIT student: Students at Groton tend to be either very smart, very rich, or both, because some people just seem to have it all. Many kids have attended private schools their whole lives. The school favors well-rounded individuals. Athletic recruits also have to be intelligent. In my time at Groton, the kids who were not motivated enough to get through the school's rigors ended up leaving. The admissions process requires an interview during which I recommend candidates dress conservatively while showing themselves to be original thinkers. Harvard student: The British exam system is for the most part based on assessment objectives: tick the boxes and you're guaranteed a great result. At Eton, while you are taught to tick the boxes, this is merely a preliminary measure; the emphasis is on going beyond the exam and enjoying the subject in all its depth. Oxford student: Gaining admission to St Albans can prove quite difficult because it is arguably the most selective school in the Washington, D.C. area. However, distinguishing oneself above other applicants is no mystery. Performing well on the SSATs and the ISEEs certainly helps the admissions officers look at an applicant more favorably. However, the dynamic applicant that St Albans seeks extends far beyond standardized tests. University of Pennsylvania student: Boarding schools in the United States: Cate School, Choate, Rosemary Hall, Cranbrook, Schools, Deerfield Academy, Groton School, Hotchkiss School, Kent School, Lawrenceville School, Loomis Chaffee School, Mercersburg Academy, Middlesex School, Milton School, Nobles and Greenough School, Northfield Mount Hermon School, Peddie School, Phillips Exeter Academy, Phillips Academy, Andover, St Albans School, St George's School, St Paul's School, Tabor Academy, Thacher School, Webb Schools. Boarding schools in the United Kingdom: Benenden School, Cheltenham Ladies College, Downe House School, Eton College, Fettes College, King's School, Canterbury, Oundle School, Radley College, Rugby School, Sevenoaks School, Shrewsbury School, St Paul's School, London, St Swithun's School, Tonbridge School, Westminster School, London, Winchester College.
