Reducing greenhouse gas emissions from deforestation Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environmental Audit Committee,2009-06-29 An area of tropical forest the size of England continues to be lost each year This gives rise to around 17 per cent of global greenhouse gas emissions greater than global emissions from transport Addressing deforestation is as essential as decarbonising electricity or transport if the world is to avoid dangerous climate change A failure to act on deforestation could double the cost of avoiding dangerous climate change to 2030 Deforestation is caused by a range of factors many of which are exacerbated by a growing global population and increasing consumption Halting deforestation requires a support for rainforest nations to help them manage their development so that it does not allow continued deforestation b management of the demand for commodities whose production encourages deforestation and c the introduction of a mechanism to pay developing countries for maintaining and in due course recreating their forests The UK needs to act in all three areas if its policies on deforestation are to be successful Ignoring any one undermines the effectiveness and durability of action in the other areas As part of this work the Government must remove subsidies that contribute to deforestation such as biofuels policy develop sustainability standards for agricultural commodities implement and enforce government timber procurement and seek an EU wide ban on illegal timber imports combined with robust sanctions Illegal timber imports are still a fact of life within the UK timber trade The economic environmental and development case for immediate action on deforestation is clear But success is possible only if the international community works together effectively

Enthralling Frans de Waal New York Times Book Review Survival of the fittest or survival of the nicest Since the dawn of time man has contemplated the mystery of altruism but it was Darwin who posed the question most starkly From the selfless ant to the stinging bee to the man laying down his life for a stranger evolution has yielded a goodness that in theory should never be Set against the sweeping tale of 150 years of scientific attempts to explain kindness The Price of Altruism tells for the first time the moving story of the eccentric American genius George Price 1922 1975 as he strives to answer evolution s greatest riddle An original and penetrating picture of twentieth century thought it is also a deeply personal journey From the heights of the Manhattan Project to the inspired equation that explains altruism to the depths of homelessness and despair Price s life embodies the paradoxes of Darwin s enigma His tragic suicide in a squatter s flat among the vagabonds to whom he gave all his possessions provides the ultimate contemplation on the possibility of genuine benevolence A Research Strategy for Environmental, Health, and Safety Aspects of Engineered Nanomaterials National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, National Materials and Manufacturing Board, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Chemical Sciences and Technology, Board on Environmental Studies and Toxicology, Committee to Develop a Research Strategy for Environmental, Health, and Safety Aspects of Engineered Nanomaterials, 2012-06-09

The nanotechnology sector which generated about 225 billion in product sales in 2009 is predicted to expand rapidly over the next decade with the development of new technologies that have new capabilities The increasing production and use of engineered nanomaterials ENMs may lead to greater exposures of workers consumers and the environment and the unique scale specific and novel properties of the materials raise questions about their potential effects on human health and the environment Over the last decade government agencies academic institutions industry and others have conducted many assessments of the environmental health and safety EHS aspects of nanotechnology The results of those efforts have helped to direct research on the EHS aspects of ENMs However despite the progress in assessing research needs and despite the research that has been funded and conducted developers regulators and consumers of nanotechnology enabled products remain uncertain about the types and quantities of nanomaterials in commerce or in development their possible applications and their associated risks A Research Strategy for Environmental Health and Safety Aspects of Engineered Nanomaterials presents a strategic approach for developing the science and research infrastructure needed to address uncertainties regarding the potential EHS risks of ENMs The report summarizes the current state of the science and high priority data gaps on the potential EHS risks posed by ENMs and describes the fundamental tools and approaches needed to pursue an EHS risk research strategy The report also presents a proposed research agenda short term and long term research priorities and estimates of needed resources and concludes by focusing on implementation of the research strategy and evaluation of its progress elements that the committee considered integral to its charge
