

Oral history essay

The Vietnam War effected the whole world in many ways. But when talking about wars in class only give you one perspective which is the big picture. But what about the small picture? The effect the war had on individuals and their families. Sometimes hearing the story from someone who was in the war can give you a better understanding about the conditions they faced. For this oral history paper interviewed my uncle Steven Mangled who was an engineer sergeant in the Vietnam War.

During this time before the draft was abolished in 1973, many troops were selected for service through the drafts but those who didn't want to go to war would sometimes flee to Canada or other places. 25 percent of the troops that served in this war were draftees. These people were called "draft dodgers." My uncle didn't want to be one of these people and wanted to do his duty as an American citizen so he joined the army in the 1960's after graduating college. He went through NCO school, which is a course to becoming a non-commissioned officer.

He then went through his training to become a sergeant and entered the U. S Army Corps of Engineers. Shortly after, around 1970, he was sent to Vietnam. His mission there was to support an artillery unit that was stationed on the border of North and South Vietnam. He built and designed things like helicopter pads, flood protection systems, facilities for the army and many other things. During his stay he also had the opportunity to help build a hospital for the Vietnamese people.

One of the things that affected my uncle during the war was the subject of races. At this time period there was a lot of civil rights movements going on. The Vietnam War had a very high percentage of blacks more than any war before it. Blacks made up about 13 percent of the troops that served. Before joining the war my uncle had a lot of prejudices about the different races, but started to think differently after working closely with people from all different races and ethnicities. He learned to live with them and became very close to a lot of them.

The Vietnam War provided these African Americans and Hispanics their first experiences of white comradeship and really opened peoples eyes to the fact that they weren't all that different. Of course there was bound to be occasional racial tension but they tried to keep this tension from affecting the performance of the troops. My uncle started to gain respect for Hispanics in the war. He said that they were the hardest workers and had a great work ethic. His visions of the races totally changed.

Another thing that really affected my uncle was when he was building the hospital for the Vietnamese. The hospitals in the Vietnam War were different from any other war. There wasn't a very good road system through Vietnam so transportation was very hard so most of the hospitals were sem

Your Writing Pat Thomson, Barbara Kamler, 2016-02-26 There are a number of books which aim to help doctoral researchers write the PhD This book offers something different the scholarly detox This is not a faddish alternative it s not extreme It s a moderate approach intended to gently interrupt old ways of doing things and establish new habits and orientations to writing the PhD The book addresses the problems that most doctoral researchers experience at some time during their candidature being unclear about their contribution feeling lost in the literature feeling like an imposter not knowing how to write with authority wanting to edit rather than revise Each chapter addresses a problem suggests an alternative framing and then offers strategies designed to address the real issue Detox Your Writing is intended to be a companionable work book something doctoral researchers can use throughout their doctorate to ask questions about taken for granted ways of writing and reading and to develop new and effective approaches The authors distinctive approach to doctoral writing mobilises the rich traditions of linguistic scholarship as well as the literatures on scholarly identity formation Building on years of expertise they place their emphasis both on tools and techniques as well as the discursive practices of becoming a scholar The authors provide a wide repertoire of strategies that doctoral researchers can select from rather than a linear lock step progression through a set of exercises The book is a toolkit but a far from prescriptive one It shows that there are many routes to developing a personal academic voice and identity and a well crafted text With points for reflection alongside examples from a broad range of disciplines the book offers thinking tools writing tools linguistic tools and reading tools which are relevant to all stages of doctoral research This practical text can be used in all university doctoral training and composition and writing courses However it is not a dry how to do it manual that ignores debates or focuses solely on the mechanical at the expense of the lived experience of doctoral research It provides a practical theorised real world guide to postgraduate writing
