

PRESCHOOL HOME PROJECTS SAMPLE LETTER TO PARENTS

Dear Parents,

We're excited to announce some fun, educational home projects for your preschooler! These activities will reinforce what we're learning in class. They're designed to be engaging and easy to do at home.

This month's focus is on shapes and colors. We'll be working on identifying different shapes and learning their names. Your child will also be exploring a variety of colors and learning to mix them.

Please feel free to contact us if you have any questions or need further clarification.

We look forward to seeing the amazing creations your child makes!

Sincerely,

The Preschool Team

Frontiers in the Acquisition of Literacy Claire M.

Fletcher-Flinn, 2015-09-28 Learning to read and to spell are two of the most important cultural skills that must be acquired by children and for that matter anyone learning a second language We are not born with an innate ability to read A reading system of mental representations that enables us to read must be formed in the brain Learning to read in alphabetic orthographies is the acquisition of such a system which links mental representations of visual symbols letters in print words with pre existing phonological sound and semantic comprehension cognitive systems for language Although spelling draws on the same representational knowledge base and is usually correlated with reading the acquisition processes involved are not quite the same Spelling requires the sequential production of letters in words and at beginning levels there may not be a full degree of integration of phonology with its representation by the orthography Reading on the other hand requires only the recognition of a word for pronunciation Hence spelling is more difficult than reading and learning to spell may necessitate more complete representations or more conscious access to them The learning processes that children use to acquire such cognitive systems in the brain and whether these same processes are universal across different languages and orthographies are central theoretical questions Most children learn to read and spell their language at the same time thus the co ordination of these two facets of literacy acquisition needs explication as well as the effect of different teaching approaches on acquisition Lack of progress in either reading and or spelling is also a major issue of concern for parents and teachers necessitating a cross disciplinary approach to the problem encompassing major efforts from researchers in neuroscience cognitive science experimental psychology and education The purpose of this Research Topic is to summarize and review what has been accomplished so far and to further explore these general issues Contributions from different perspectives are welcomed and could include theoretical computational and empirical works that focus on the acquisition of literacy including cross orthographic research

Partnering with Parents Mary Schreiber,2019-04-01 Caregiver involvement is key to a child s reading success story and libraries are in the perfect position to provide the guidance needed for parents and caregivers to embrace their role as their children s first and most enduring teachers Libraries offer many programs and services for children but sometimes caregivers are left out of the equation especially once children start school Nevertheless parents and caregivers are an integral part of literacy development and libraries are a great place for them to witness modeling practices and participate in engaging family programs that encourage early literacy Mary Schreiber combines personal experience and professional research with the programming expertise of youth librarians from across the country in this guide for libraries looking to make an even greater impact on the level of literacy attained by the children they serve In Partnering with Parents readers will find a wealth of information on how to talk to caregivers about the different stages of a child s reading life what books to recommend to excite both caregivers and children about reading and ways to encourage parent and caregiver participation in library programming with additional information on working with and providing programming for diverse families Whether you are a veteran in the profession or brand new to working with families you will find something in this book that will help you to make your library a more integral part of the education community

Committee on Education and Labor, 1967 Research on the Education of Asian Pacific Americans Vol. 1 Clara C. Park, A. Lin Goodwin, Stacey J. Lee, 2002-02-01 As the first volume in a series sponsored by SIG Research on the Education of Asian and Pacific Americans of the American Educational Research Association and California Association for Asian and Pacific American Education this book sheds important light on the educational needs of Asian and Pacific American students in college. Each chapter illuminates the unique issues confronting Asian and Pacific Americans and provides crucial information necessary to understand how Asian and Pacific American students learn and how educational practitioners should work with Asian and Pacific students. This body of knowledge can inform researchers and practitioners as well as policy makers of effective instruction for Asian and Pacific American students at all levels. The series intends to be a national voice for the education of Asian and Pacific Americans and provide an integrated view of new knowledge in the field of Asian and Pacific American education from scholar practitioners' perspectives Improving Classroom Reading Instruction Gerald G. Duffy, Laura R. Roehler, 1993 This is a core text for the Elementary Reading Methods course sometimes referred to as Developmental Reading. It is distinguished by its heavy emphasis on reading instruction. Most reading texts are organized around what research says about learning to read. Improving Classroom Reading Instruction focuses more on teaching i.e. on how teachers think and act in order to help students achieve literacy: the ability to read and write Early Childhood Education Nechama Nir-Janiv, Nehama Yaniv-Nir, 2012-12-06 Succeeding in the Secondary Classroom Harriett Arnold, 2001 Practical hands-on strategies to guide beginning teachers through their initial teaching experience. A roadmap to a successful journey. Michael Johnson, Principal Alameda High School Alameda CA Provides the practical support that new teachers need to help them succeed and at the same time provides the theoretical support that all teachers need to help them become truly professional educators. Marion McDowell, Former Deputy Superintendent Sequoia Union High School District Life-saving tools and techniques for that first year of teaching. Every day of the school year is the first day of the school year for some teacher somewhere. And whenever that first day occurs the challenge is the same: to focus on everything and everyone: students, parents, colleagues, teaching associates, and school site administrators and make it all work. This new book of insights and ideas is designed especially for beginning secondary teachers who want to excel during that all-important first year. Included are strategies on What to do before the first day of school from planning classroom design to dressing for success. Handling that first week of school. Planning for classroom instruction. Student recordkeeping. Classroom management and discipline. Working with colleagues, substitutes, and paraprofessionals. Communicating with parents and invaluable insights on self-evaluation, school politics, and finding a balance between work, home, and colleagues. Succeeding in the Secondary Classroom is a culmination of materials from master teachers who work with beginning teachers every day to help them succeed. Harriet Arnold is a veteran educator who has served as an elementary school teacher, a middle school administrator, elementary school principal, director of personnel and staff development, and international consultant to schools.

A graduate of San Francisco State University with a B A in Social Welfare she received her Master of Education at California State University San Jose and her Doctorate with an emphasis in Curriculum and Instruction from the University of San Francisco Her professional development projects have involved training for the Ministry of Education in the Bahamas and coordinator of the Sequoia Beginning Teacher Program

Parental Involvement in Children's Reading Keith Topping, Sheila

Wolfendale, 2017-11-28 Parental involvement in children s education is a subject of growing interest and recent legislation in both the UK and USA has given formal recognition of parents rights Learning to read is an obvious area where parents can do a great deal to help and some schools have had programmes for parental involvement in reading for some time However recent research has shown the considerable benefit in having carefully structured systems for parental involvement This book presents a review of past and current good practice in this field Details of a wide range of schemes developed in local areas are given in a series of short contributed papers which are grouped into sub sections of Part 2 according to the type of project Part 3 is essentially a manual of materials and methods The emphasis throughout the book is on service delivery to all children although there is of course considerable discussion of remedial reading and children with special needs The book should appeal to a wide audience in education educational administration and educational psychology
