College is a place where students expand their knowledge and undergo new experiences. Of course, different people have different reasons for studying in college. For example, some people want to go on to post graduate studies, some hope to improve their job prospects, and some simply want to change their present situation. In my opinion, further education sets a person up for a better future, regardless of their motivation.

First of all, in terms of gaining knowledge, institutions of higher education expose students to a range of instructors, all of whom have their own area of expertise to share and with which they can help their students solve problems. With their help, students learn both basic and professional knowledge which may prove to be very useful as they go on to both work and contribute to society.

Secondly, in terms of new experiences, students learn how to prioritize and arrange their own time reasonably. Until college, students' lives are typically organized by their parents, while their studies are often arranged by their teachers. At university, students become solely responsible for decisions about both living and studying, including deciding when to get up, participate in sports, and complete assignments. This ability to prioritize, schedule, and perform is a critical life skill for future success.

Thirdly, studying in the college offers unique socializing opportunities. Everything from sharing accommodation to completing group-work demands a higher level of cooperation than most people experience elsewhere. As students acquire these invaluable communication skills, they become better prepared to contribute fully to the global society.

All in all, anyone who opts for further education enters a world of new experiences that will broaden their horizons, increase their knowledge base, and strengthen their communication skills; thereby, setting them up for successful futures.
