Big Book of Self-Reliant Living Walter Szykitka, 2009-10-14 Rural homesteaders and urban apartment dwellers alike will find a mother lode of practical information packed into this completely revised and updated edition of the ultimate how-to handbook for all generations. A selective compendium of public domain documents, it brings together in one volume a wealth of knowledge and useful instruction on just about every imaginable aspect of self-sufficiency: from building a dwelling and growing food to raising children using tools of all kinds and yes, getting more mileage out of your car. Readers will learn how to build a greenhouse, administer first aid, stock an emergency shelter, survive in the wilderness at sea and in the city, plant, buy farmland, grow plants indoors and out, read architect's drawings, care for household pets, repair clothing, hunt, trap, and fish, repair a screen or leaking faucet, butcher and store big game, kill, relieve allergy symptoms, control insects, stay safe during storms and floods, can and freeze fruits and vegetables, take your own blood pressure, and much, much more. Praise for a previous edition: How we have survived this long without this book, I don't know. The concept is brilliant and simple. If we had lived in a rural community a century ago, much of the knowledge gathered here would have been in our bones. Harper's

World Gerd Gigerenzer shows why that's not true and tells us how we can stay in charge in a world populated by algorithms. Machines powered by artificial intelligence are good at some things, playing chess, but not others, life and death decisions or anything involving uncertainty. Gigerenzer explains why algorithms often fail at finding us romantic partners, love is not chess, why self-driving cars fall prey to the Russian Tank Fallacy, and how judges and police rely increasingly on nontransparent black box algorithms to predict whether a criminal defendant will reoffend or show up in court. He invokes Black Mirror, considers the privacy paradox (people want privacy but give their data away) and explains that social media get us hooked by programming intermittent reinforcement in the form of the like button. We shouldn't trust smart technology unconditionally, Gigerenzer tells us, but we shouldn't fear it unthinkingly either.
