

POPPIE

The background of the cover is a painting of a vast, flat landscape. In the foreground and middle ground, there are thousands of small, rectangular objects, possibly tiles or stones, scattered across the ground. These objects are in various colors, including shades of red, orange, yellow, and brown. The ground itself appears to be a mix of dark and light patches. In the distance, a flat horizon line separates the land from a sky filled with soft, colorful clouds. A large, bright sun is setting or rising, casting a warm glow over the entire scene. The overall mood is dreamlike and surreal.

Poppie By Elsa Joubert In English:

Elsa Joubert's The Long Journey of Poppie Nongena, 1981 Third World Women's Literatures Barbara Fister, 1995-09-14 This reference volume serves as a companion to Third World women's literatures in English and in English translation by presenting entries on works, writers and themes. Entries are chosen to present a balance of well known writers and emerging ones, contemporary as well as historical writers and representative selections of genres, literary styles and themes. What plays have been written by women in the developing world? What books have been written by Sri Lankan or Brazilian women? Which works address themes of feminism or exile or politics in the Third World? These are the types of questions that can now be answered through Fister's companion to Third World women's literatures in English and English translation. Organized alphabetically, this reference volume presents entries on works, writers and themes. Entries are chosen to present a balance of well known writers and emerging ones, contemporary as well as historical writers and representative selections of genres, literary styles and themes. By providing information about and leads to works by and about Third World women, an important and largely marginalized literature, Fister has created a unique reference tool that will help teachers, scholars and librarians both public and academic expand their definitions of the literary, making the voices of Third World women available in the same format in which many companions to Western literature do. An important book for all public and college level libraries.

The Long Journey of Poppie Nongena Elsa Joubert, 2019-10-20 Poppie Nongena's arduous journey covers 40 years of South Africa's history, sweeping through the riots of Sharpeville, Soweto and Cape Town, on to an indefinite but unpromising future. The plot reflects the brutality and injustice of the Apartheid system, while Elsa Joubert's characterisations reflect the courage and fortitude of people in the face of hardship and difficulty. Poppie's contented childhood in the Cape's countryside came to an end when she married a migrant worker and was forced by the authorities to move with him and their young family to the unfamiliar and bewildering city of Cape Town. No sooner had she established her roots in the new township when the laws changed and she was informed of her obligation to relocate to the Ciskei, her husband's homeland. He, as a migrant worker, was permitted to remain in the Cape to work. Over a ten year period, Poppie fought the heinous pass law system, winning limited extensions to the permit that would allow her to live and work in Cape Town and enable her to keep the family together and provide an education for her children. Her own anger was shared by thousands, and inevitably the brooding undercurrent of discontent exploded throughout South Africa. Suddenly, there were no further extensions. Poppie and her children were forcibly removed from their home and resettled in a new township, hundreds of miles away, near East London. The Long Journey of Poppie Nongena is an epic tale of the endless adversity and struggle of a humble black woman under Apartheid laws. Poppie emerges from being a simple country girl to becoming an archetypal heroine of South Africa.

Fiction and Truth in Transition Oscar Hemer,2012 What can fiction tell us about the world that journalism and science cannot This simple yet vast question is the starting point for an interrogation of the relationship between literary fiction and society s dramatic transformation in South Africa and Argentina over the past several decades The resulting discursive text borders on both journalism and literature incorporating reportage essay and memoir Series Freiburg Studies in Social Anthropology Vol 34 Trauma, Memory, and Narrative in the Contemporary South African Novel ,2012-01-01 The contributions to this volume probe the complex relationship of trauma memory and narrative By looking at the South African situation through the lens of trauma they make clear how the psychic deformations and injuries left behind by racism and colonialism cannot be mended by material reparation or by simply reversing economic and political power structures Western trauma theories as developed by scholars such as Caruth van der Kolk Herman and others are insufficient for analysing the more complex situation in a postcolony such as South Africa This is because Western trauma concepts focus on the individual traumatized by a single identifiable event that causes PTSD Post Traumatic Stress Disorder What we need is an understanding of trauma that sees it not only as a result of an identifiable event but also as the consequence of an historical condition in the case of South Africa that of colonialism and more specifically of apartheid For most black and coloured South Africans the structural violence of apartheid s laws were the existential condition under which they had to exist The living conditions in the townships pass laws relocation and racial segregation affected great parts of the South African population and were responsible for the collective traumatization of several generations This trauma however is not an unclaimed and unclaimable experience Postcolonial thinkers who have been reflecting on the experience of violence and trauma in a colonial context writing from within a Fanonian tradition have on the contrary believed in the importance of reclaiming the past and of transcending mechanisms of victimization and resentment so typical of traumatized consciousnesses Narration and the novel have a decisive role to play here Theatrical Events Vicki Ann Cremona,2004 Theatrical Events Borders Dynamics and Frames is written to develop the concept of Eventness in Theatre Studies The book as a whole stresses the importance of understanding theatre performances as aesthetic communicative encounters of a wide range of agents and aspects The Theatrical Event concept means not only that performers and spectators meet but also that the specific mental sets backgrounds and cultural contexts they bring in strongly contribute to the character of a particular event Moreover this concept gives space to the study of the role societal developments such as technological political economical or educational ones play in theatrical events Snow on the Cane Fields Judith L. Raiskin,1996 Snow on the Cane Fields was first published in 1995 Minnesota Archive Editions uses digital technology to make long unavailable books once again accessible and are published unaltered from the original University of Minnesota Press editions In a probing analysis of creole women s writing over the past century Judith Raiskin explores the workings and influence of cultural and linguistic colonialism Tracing the transnational and racial meanings of creole identity Raiskin looks at four English speaking writers from South Africa and the Caribbean Olive Schreiner Jean Rhys Michelle Cliff and Zo Wicomb She examines their work in light of the discourses of their times nineteenth century race science and imperialistic rhetoric turn of the century anti Semitic sentiment and feminist pacifism postcolonial theory and apartheid legislation In their writing and in their multiple identities these women highlight the gendered nature of race citizenship culture and the language of literature Raitskin shows how each writer expresses her particular ambivalences and divided loyalties both enforcing and challenging the proprietary British perspective on colonial history culture and language A new perspective on four writers and their uneasy places in colonial culture Snow on the Cane Fields reveals the value of pursuing a feminist approach to questions of national political and racial identity Judith Raitskin is assistant professor of women's studies at the University of California Santa Barbara

The Bounds of Race Dominick LaCapra, 2018-08-06 The concept of race is central to one of the most powerful ideological formations in history Dominick LaCapra argues in his introduction to this volume and understanding the effects of that ideology and its intricate relations with issues of class and gender is one of the most pressing challenges to contemporary modes of thought The eleven essays comprising The Bounds of Race confront this challenge with insight rigor and imagination The authors take on questions of language genre and politics with reference to African American Anglo American African South African Francophone North African British and Afro Hispanic texts Individual chapters discuss writings from an array of genres including homily autobiography the novel children's literature and political and scientific discourse Taken together the essays argue persuasively that the existing canon must be expanded that the protocols of interpretation must be transformed to make a prominent place for such issues as race and that the problem of interpretation cannot be posed in the absence of theoretically informed modes of historical investigation The Bounds of Race provides a subtle analysis of the variable role of racial ideologies and traces the interplay between hegemonic constraints and the strategies of resistance to them
