The Case Against the SAT James Crouse,Dale Trusheim,1988-03-31 The College Entrance Examination Board and the Educational Testing Service claim that the SAT helps colleges select students helps college bound students select appropriate institutions and furthers equality of opportunity But does it really Drawing on three national surveys and on hundreds of studies conducted by colleges the authors refute the justifications the College Board and the ETS give for requiring high school students to take the SAT They show that the test neither helps colleges and universities improve their admissions decisions nor helps applicants choose schools at which they will be successful They outline the adverse effect the SAT has on students from nonwhite and low income backgrounds They also question the ability of the College Board and the ETS to monitor themselves adequately The authors do not however recommend abolishing either college admissions testing or the College Board and the ETS Rather they propose dropping the SAT and relying on such already available measures as students high school coursework and grades and they raise the possibility that new achievement tests that measure the mastery of high school courses could be developed to replace the SAT Practise SATs Tests (The New Headteacher) 9-12 years Sally Jones, Between the ages of 9 and 12 children have to complete Standardised Assessment Tests Sats To help them practise for these tests we have produced a new series of comprehension booklets The Standards and Testing Agency states that the child has 1 hour to complete the test answering the questions in the answer booklet Read one text and answer the questions about that text before moving onto the next text There are three texts and three sets of questions in each booklet The tests in this booklet are based on the KS2 Reading Assessment sample papers It is important to try and complete them in an hour but it is your choice The more tests you practise the quicker you will get The Children's Buyer's Guide ,2005
