Lethal Weapon series and Men in Black are examined This work in the sociology of knowledge and cultural studies relates the movies of Hollywood to the large political agendas on race relation in the United States Screen Savors appeals to the general reader interested in the movies or in race and ethnicity as well as to students of communication American studies critical white studies American film cultural studies and the sociology of race relations The White Savior Film Matthew Hughey,2014-04-14 The cinematic trope of the white savior film think of Sandra Bullock in The Blind Side Kevin Costner in Dances with Wolves or Tom Cruise in The Last Samurai features messianic characters in unfamiliar or hostile settings discovering something about themselves and their culture in the process of saving members of other races from terrible fates In The White Savior Film Matthew Hughey provides a cogent multipronged analysis of this subgenre of films to investigate the underpinnings of the Hollywood constructed images of idealized and often idealistic white Americans Hughey considers the production distribution and consumption of white savior films to show how the dominant messages of sacrifice suffering and redemption are perceived by both critics and audiences Examining the content of fifty films nearly 3 000 reviews and interviews with viewer focus groups he accounts for the popularity of this subgenre and its portrayal of racial progress The White Savior Film shows how we as a society create and understand these films and how they reflect the political and cultural contexts of their time Race in American Film Daniel Bernardi,Michael Green,2017-07-07 This expansive three volume set investigates racial representation in film providing an authoritative cross section of the most racially significant films actors directors and movements in American cinematic history Hollywood has always reflected current American cultural norms and ideas As such film provides a window into attitudes about race and ethnicity over the last century This comprehensive set provides information on hundreds of films chosen based on scholarly consensus of their importance regarding the subject examining aspects of race and ethnicity in American film through the historical context themes and people involved This three volume set highlights the most important films and artists of the era identifying films actors or characterizations that were considered racist were tremendously popular or hugely influential attempted to be progressive or some combination thereof Readers will not only learn basic information about each subject but also be able to contextualize it culturally historically and in terms of its reception to understand what average moviegoers thought about the subject at the time of its popularity and grasp how the subject is perceived now through the lens of history Native Americans on Network TV Michael Ray FitzGerald,2013-12-24 The American Indian has figured prominently in many films and television shows portrayed variously as a villain subservient friend or a hapless victim of progress Many Indian stereotypes that were derived from European colonial discourse some hundreds of years old still exist in the media today Even when set in the contemporary era novels films and programs tend to purvey rehashed tropes such as Pocahontas or man Friday In Native Americans on Network TV Stereotypes Myths and the Good Indian Michael Ray FitzGerald argues that the colonial power of the U S is clearly evident in network television s portrayals of Native Americans FitzGerald contends that these representations fit neatly into existing conceptions of colonial discourse and that their messages about the Good Indian have become part of viewers' understandings of Native Americans. In this study FitzGerald offers close examinations of such series as The Lone Ranger, Daniel Boone, Broken Arrow, Hawk, Nakia, and Walker Texas Ranger. By examining the traditional role of stereotypes and their functions in the rhetoric of colonialism, the volume ultimately offers a critical analysis of images of the Good Indian, minority figures that enforce the dominant group's norms. A long overdue discussion of this issue, Native Americans on Network TV will be of interest to scholars of television and media studies but also those of Native American studies, subaltern studies, and media history.

Media & Minorities Stephanie Greco Larson, 2006 Media Minorities looks at the media's racial tendencies with an eye to identifying the system's supportive messages conveyed and offering challenges to them. The book covers all major media, including television, film, newspapers, radio, magazines, and the Internet, and systematically analyzes their representation of the four largest minority groups in the U.S.: African Americans, Native Americans, Latinos, and Asian Americans. Entertainment media are compared and contrasted with news media, and special attention is devoted to coverage of social movements for racial justice and politicians of color.

Learning Culture through Sports Sandra Spickard, Brian Lampman, 2010-09-16 In today's culture, sports wield a weighty influence; this influence, however, is rarely examined. Similar to the first edition, this second edition of Learning Culture Through Sports provides coaches, educators, parents, and others dealing with students and athletes with an engaging and critical context for probing the sociological basis of this influence. The book's sections each address a particular issue in sport: youth and sport, gender and sexuality, race and ethnicity, sport media and big business, and international perspectives on sport and participation. Leading experts in the field present new and exciting avenues for exploring sport in our world, allowing us to recognize its tremendous influence, both positive and negative, in our lives and in our world. This new edition also includes cutting-edge research examining contemporary issues and controversies surrounding sport today. These issues, analyzed from multiple perspectives, will inspire readers to change the game in positive ways.

Black Oscars Frederick Gooding Jr., 2020-05-24 A timely exploration of Oscar-nominated Black actors and the complicated legacy of the Academy Awards. In Black Oscars: From Mammy to Minny, What the Academy Awards Tell Us about African Americans, Frederick W. Gooding Jr. draws on American, African American, and film history to reflect on how the Oscars have recognized Black actors from the award's inception to the present. Starting in the 1920s, the chapters provide a thorough overview and analysis of Black actors nominated for their Hollywood roles during each decade, with special attention paid to the winners. Historical patterns are scrutinized to reveal racial trends and open the question of whether race relations have truly changed substantively or only superficially over time. Given the Oscars' presence and popularity, it begs the question of what these awards reflect and reinforce about larger society. In the meticulously researched Black Oscars, we see how the Academy Awards are an indispensable guide to understanding race in mainstream Hollywood and beyond.

The Politics of Race and Ethnicity in

Matthew's Passion Narrative Wongi Park, 2019-01-21 In Matthew's passion narrative the ethnoracial identity of Jesus comes into sharp focus. The repetition of the title King of the Judeans foregrounds the politics of race and ethnicity. Despite the explicit use of terminology, previous scholarship has understood the title curiously in non-ethnoracial ways. This book takes the peculiar omission in the history of interpretation as its point of departure. It provides an expanded ethnoracial reading of the text and poses a fundamental ideological question that interrogates the pattern in the larger context of modern biblical scholarship. Wongi Park issues a critique of the dominant narrative and presents an alternative reading of Matthew's passion narrative. He identifies a critical vocabulary and framework of analysis to decode the politics of race and ethnicity implicit in the history of interpretation. Ultimately, the book lends itself to a broader research agenda: the destabilization of the dominant narrative of early Christianity's non-ethnoracial origins.

Visual Economies Of/in Motion C. Richard King, David J. Leonard, 2006 Sport films have been central to American cinema, playing an increasingly important role in the communication of a commonsense understanding of race, gender, class, history, and social relations. Oddly, scholars have neglected sport films and their significance. Offering a comparative, theoretically grounded, and interdisciplinary approach, Visual Economies of in Motion marks a novel and important point of departure in sport studies and cultural studies. It brings together a dozen essays on feature films and documentaries to probe the articulation of ideologies and identities, play and power, and sporting worlds and social fields.

Feeling White Cheryl E. Matias, 2016-03-22 Discussing race and racism often conjures up emotions of guilt, shame, anger, defensiveness, denial, sadness, dissonance, and discomfort. Instead of suppressing those feelings, coined emotionalities of whiteness, they are nonetheless important to identify, understand, and deconstruct. If one ever hopes to fully commit to racial equity, Feeling White: Whiteness, Emotionality, and Education delves deeper into these white emotionalities and other latent ones by providing theoretical and psychoanalytic analyses to determine where these emotions stem from, how they operate, and how they perpetuate racial inequities in education and society. The author beautifully weaves in creative writing with theoretical work to artistically illustrate how these emotions operate while also engaging the reader in an emotional experience in and of itself, claiming one must feel to understand. This book does not rehash former race concepts; rather, it applies them in novel ways that get at the heart of humanity, thus revealing how feeling white ultimately impacts race relations. Without a proper investigation on these underlying emotions that can both stifle or enhance one's commitment to racial justice in education and society, the field of education denies itself a proper emotional preparation so needed to engage in prolonged educative projects of racial and social justice. By digging deep to what impacts humanity most, our hearts, this book dares to expose one's daily experiences with race, thus individually challenging us all to self-investigate our own racialized emotionalities. Drawing on her deep wisdom about how race works, Cheryl Matias directly interrogates the emotional arsenal white people use as shields from the pain of confronting racism, peeling back its layers to unearth a core of love that can open us up. In Feeling White: Whiteness, Emotionality, and Education

Matias deftly names and deconstructs distancing emotions prodding us to stay in the conversation in order to become teachers who can reach children marginalized by racism Christine Sleeter Ph D Professor Emeritus California State University Monterey Bay In Feeling White Cheryl E Matias blends astute observations analyses and insights about the emotions embedded in white identity and their impact on the racialized politics of affect in teacher education Drawing deftly on her own classroom experiences as well as her mastery of the methodologies and theories of critical whiteness studies Matias challenges us to develop what Dr King called the strength to love by confronting and conquering the affective structures that promote white innocence and preclude white accountability George Lipsitz Ph D Professor University of California Santa Barbara and author of The Possessive Investment in Whiteness Cheryl E Matias Ph D is an assistant professor in the School of Education and Human Development at the University of Colorado Denver She is a motherscholar of three children including boy girl twins

Latino Identity in Contemporary America Martin Bulmer, John Solomos, 2014-01-02 This edited collection brings together original research papers that explore an important aspect of race and ethnic studies namely the processes that are shaping the making of Latina and Latino identities in contemporary America This is a question that has received much attention in the USA over the past decade and these papers make an original contribution to these debates Much of this attention towards Latino a communities in the USA can be seen as the outcome of public debates about the growth of these communities over the past three decades and the consequences of this growth for social and political change The papers in this collection highlight some of the key facets of contemporary research in this field As original pieces of research they are at the forefront of current debates about Latino a identities in contemporary America and they provide research based insights into the changing experiences of these communities This book was originally published as a special issue of Ethnic and Racial Studies
