Exploring the Optimal Endometrial Preparation Protocol for Frozen-Thawed Embryo Transfer Emre Pabuccu, 2024-03-01

In recent years with the significant improvement of ovarian stimulation regimens embryo cryopreservation and thawing techniques the frozen thawed embryo transfer FET procedure has gained more popularity in assisted reproductive technology ART than fresh embryo transfer In general the success of FET depends on the quality of embryo receptivity of uterine and synchronization between embryo and endometrium Therefore it is of particular importance to determine the optimal timing to perform FET known as the window of implantation

Pregnancy Test Karen Weingarten, 2023-03-09

Object Lessons is a series of short beautifully designed books about the hidden lives of ordinary things In the 1970s the invention of the home pregnancy test changed what it means to be pregnant For the first time women could use a technology in the privacy of their own homes that gave them a yes or no answer That answer had the power to change the course of their reproductive lives and it chipped away at a paternalistic culture that gave gynecologists the majority of whom were men control over information about women's bodies However while science so often promises clear cut answers the reality of pregnancy is often much messier Pregnancy Test explores how the pregnancy test has not always lived up to the fantasy that more information equals more knowledge Karen Weingarten examines the history and cultural representation of the pregnancy test to show how this object radically changed sex and pregnancy in the late 20th and early 21st centuries Object Lessons is published in partnership with an essay series in the The Atlantic

Rhesus haemolytic disease Cyril A. Clarke, 2012-12-06

Jaundice of newborn infants was described by several authors in the 17th century The condition however was usually thought of as being similar to adult jaundice and due to occlusion of the bile ducts by glutinous humours On the other hand some writers reported on the fact that more than one consecutive baby was often affected and there is a classic example of the disease in twins written by Louyse Bourgeois the midwife of Marie de Medici in 1609 It was not until early in the 20th century that it was realised that the common link between these familial cases was anaemia and later still that this was of the haemolytic type The breakthrough in terms of an idea came in 1938 when Darrow postulated that the baby's red cells were destroyed by an immune reaction on the part of the mother the result of immunisation by paternal factors in the fetus Shortly afterwards Wiener discovered an entirely new blood group system Rh and it was found that it was in compatibility within this system that was responsible for the vast majority of cases of haemolytic disease of the newborn
