colonialism in Britain and France By comparing these two former colonial powers the author tells two distinct stories about coming to terms with the legacies of colonialism the role of silence and the breaking thereof Examining memory through the stories of people who incited public conversation on colonialism activists politicians journalists and professional historians this book argues that these actors mobilised the colonial past to make sense of national identity race and belonging in the present In focusing on memory as an ongoing politicised public debate the book examines the afterlife of colonial history as an element of political and social discourse that depends on actors goals and priorities A thought provoking and powerful read that explores the divisive legacies of colonialism through oral history this book will appeal to those researching imperialism collective memory and cultural identity Writing Postcolonial France Fiona Barclay, 2011-09-16 This book examines the way in which France has failed to come to terms with the end of its empire and is now haunted by the legacy of its colonial relationship with North Africa It examines the form assumed by the ghosts of the past in fiction from a range of genres travel writing detective fiction life writing historical fiction women s writing produced within metropolitan France and assesses whether moments of haunting may in fact open up possibilities for a renewed relational structure of cultural memory By viewing metropolitan France through the prism of its relationship with its former colonies in North Africa the book maps the complexities of contemporary France demonstrating an emerging postcoloniality within France itself

Austere Histories in European Societies Stefan Jonsson, Julia Willén, 2016-11-03 In recent years European states have turned toward more austere political regimes entailing budget cuts deregulation of labour markets restrictions of welfare systems securitization of borders and new regimes of migration and citizenship In the wake of such changes new forms of social inclusion and exclusion appear that are justified through a reactivation of differences of race class and gender Against this backdrop this collection investigates contemporary understandings of history and cultural memory In doing so the reader will join the leading European contributors of this title in examining how crisis and decline in contemporary Europe trigger a selective forgetting and remodelling of the past Indeed Austere Histories in European Societies breaks new paths in scholarship by synthesising and connecting current European debates on migration racism and multiculturalism In addition to this the authors present debates on cultural memory and the place of the colonial legacy within an extensive comparative framework and across the boundaries of the humanities and social sciences This book will appeal to scholars and students across the social sciences and humanities particularly in European studies memory studies sociology postcolonial studies migration studies European history cultural policy cultural heritage economics and political theory Africa and France Dominic Richard David Thomas, 2013 This stimulating and insightful book reveals how increased control over immigration has changed cultural and social production in theatre literature and even museum construction Dominic Thomas s analysis unravels the complex cultural and political realities of long standing mobility between Africa and Europe Thomas questions the attempt to place strict limits on what it means to be French or European and offers a sense of what must happen to bring about a renewed sense of integration and global Frenchness Jews in Arab Countries Georges Bensoussan, 2019-03-04

In this new history French author Georges Bensoussan retells the story of what life was like for Jews in the Arab world since 1850. During the early years of this time it was widely believed that Jewish life in Arab lands was peaceful. Jews were protected by law and suffered much less violence, persecution and inequality. Bensoussan takes on this myth and looks back over the history of Jewish-Arab relations in Arab countries. He finds that there is little truth to the myth and forwards a nuanced history of interrelationship that is not only diverse but deals with local differences in cultural, religious and political practice. Bensoussan divides the work into sections that cover 1850 to the end of WWI, from 1919 to the eve of WWII and then from WWII to the establishment of Israel and the Arab Wars. A new afterword brings the history of Jewish and Arab relations into the present day. Bensoussan has determined that the history of Jews in Arab countries is a history of slowly disintegrating relationships, increasing tension, violence and persecution. Seloua Luste Boulbina, 2019-05-24 Even though many of France's former colonies became independent over fifty years ago, the concept of colony and who was affected by colonialism remain problematic in French culture today. Seloua Luste Boulbina, an Algerian-French philosopher and political theorist, shows how the colony's structures persist in the subjectivity, sexuality and bodily experience of human beings who were once brought together through force. This text, which combines two works by Luste Boulbina, shows how France and its former colonies are haunted by power relations that are supposedly old history but whose effects on knowledge, imagination, emotional habits and public controversies have persisted vividly into the present. Luste Boulbina draws on the work of Michel Foucault, Frantz Fanon and Édouard Glissant to build a challenging original and intercultural philosophy that responds to blind spots of inherited political and social culture. Kafka's Monkey and Other Phantoms of Africa offers unique insights into how issues of migration, religious and ethnic identity and postcolonial history affect contemporary France and beyond. Colonizer or Colonized Sara E. Melzer, 2011-11-29

Colonizer or Colonized introduces two colonial stories into the heart of France's literary and cultural history. The first describes elite France's conflicted relationship to the Ancient World. As much as French intellectuals aligned themselves with the Greco-Romans as an us, they also resented the Ancients as an imperial them, haunted by the memory that both the Greeks and Romans had colonized their ancestors, the Gauls. This memory put the elite on the defensive, defending against the legacy of this colonized past and the fear that they were the barbarian other. The second story mirrored the first. Just as the Romans had colonized the Gauls, France would colonize the New World, becoming the New Rome by creating a New France. Borrowing the Roman strategy, the French Church and State developed an assimilationist stance towards the Amerindian barbarian. This policy provided a foundation for what would become the nation's most basic stance towards the other. However, this version of assimilation, unlike its subsequent ones, encouraged the colonized and the colonizer to engage in close forms of contact such as mixed marriages and communities. This book weaves these two different stories together in a triangulated dynamic. It asks the Ancients to step aside to include the New World other into a larger narrative in which elite France carved out their nation's emerging cultural identity in relation to both the New World and the Ancient World A Critical Political Economy of the Middle East and North Africa Joel Beinin, Bassam Haddad, Sherene Seikaly, 2020-12-22 This book offers the first critical engagement with the political economy of the Middle East and North Africa Challenging conventional wisdom on the origins and contemporary dynamics of capitalism in the region these cutting edge essays demonstrate how critical political economy can illuminate both historical and contemporary dynamics of the region and contribute to wider political economy debates from the vantage point of the Middle East Leading scholars representing several disciplines contribute both thematic and country specific analyses Their writings critically examine major issues in political economy notably the mutual constitution of states markets and classes the co constitution of class race gender and other forms of identity varying modes of capital accumulation and the legal political and cultural forms of their regulation relations among local national and global forms of capital class and culture technopolitics the role of war in the constitution of states and classes and practices and cultures of domination and resistance Visit politicaleconomyproject.org for additional media and learning resources The Algerian War in French/Algerian Writing Jonathan Lewis, 2018-10-05 This book will enlighten readers on the importance of literature in contributing to historical knowledge Will provide readers with comprehensive understanding of the development of writing by French authors of Algerian origin from its emergence in the 1980s to the present day Emphasizes the contemporary relevance of the Algerian War and the afterlives of empire on twenty first century society and culture

Empire of Language Laurent Dubreuil, 2013-05-15 The relationship between power and language has been a central theme in critical theory for decades now yet there is still much to be learned about the sheer force of language in the world in which we live In Empire of Language Laurent Dubreuil explores the power language phenomenon in the context of European and particularly French colonialism and its aftermath Through readings of the colonial experience he isolates a phraseology based on possession in terms of both appropriation and haunting that has persisted throughout the centuries Not only is this phraseology a legacy of the past it is still active today especially in literary renderings of the colonial experience but also and more paradoxically in anticolonial discourse This phrase shaped the teaching of European languages in the former empires and it tried to configure the usage of those idioms by the Indigenes Then scholarly disciplines have to completely reconsider their discursive strategies about the colonial if at least they attempt to speak up Dubreuil ranges widely in terms of time and space from the ancien r gime through the twentieth century from Paris to Haiti to Quebec from the Renaissance to the riots in the banlieues He examines diverse texts from political speeches legal documents and colonial treatises to anthropological essays poems of the N gritude and contemporary rap ever attuned to the linguistic strategies that undergird colonial power Equally conversant in both postcolonial criticism and poststructuralist scholarship on language but also deeply grounded in the sociohistorical context of the colonies Dubreuil sets forth the conditions for an authentically postcolonial scholarship one that acknowledges the difficulty of getting beyond a colonialism and still maintains the need for an afterward

Contesting Indochina M. Kathryn Edwards, 2016-06-14 How does a nation come to terms with losing a war especially an overseas war whose purpose is fervently contested In the years after the war how does such a nation construct and reconstruct its identity and values For the French in Indochina the stunning defeat at Dien Bien Phu ushered in the violent process of decolonization and a fraught reckoning with a colonial past Contesting Indochina is the first in depth study of the competing and intertwined narratives of the Indochina War It analyzes the layers of French remembrance focusing on state sponsored commemoration veterans associations special interest groups intellectuals films and heated public disputes These narratives constitute the ideological battleground for contesting the legacies of colonialism decolonization the Cold War and France s changing global status

Museums in Postcolonial Europe Dominic Thomas, 2013-09-13 The history of European nation building and identity formation is inextricably connected with museums and the role they play in displaying the acquired spoils and glorious symbols of geopolitical power in order to mobilize public support for expansionist ventures This book examines the contemporary debate surrounding the museum in postcolonial Europe Although there is no consensus on the European colonial experience the process of decolonization in Europe has involved an examination of the museum s place and ethnic minorities and immigrants have insisted upon improved representation in the genealogies of European nation states Museological practices have been subjected to greater scrutiny in light of these political and social transformations In addition to the refurbishment and restructuring of colonial era museums new spaces have also been inaugurated to highlight the contemporary importance of museums in postcolonial Europe as well as the significance of incorporating the perspective of postcolonial European populations into these spaces This book includes contributions from leading experts in their fields and represents a comparative trans historical and transcolonial examination which contextualises and reinterpretes to the legacies and experiences of European museums This book was published as a special issue of Africa and Black Diaspora An International Journal

North African community emerging as a sizable and durable presence in Paris after World War I this policing became a key state practice in imagining and administering the immigrant population Prakash shows that despite the French state's current reluctance to use race as an official category racial thought and racial targets animated police services social services and urban planning schemes from the 1920s until the 1970s Using police archival records reports from colonial officials urban planning and housing studies and the records of French social workers and immigrant associations Prakash shows that colonial racism was integrated into the policing of Paris and that architecture urbanism and social housing assumed police functions for colonial and postcolonial migrants In light of this history contemporary social and racial segregation periodic protests and rioting against police violence and the aggressive posture of the Parisian police emerge as the material traces of French colonialism in the metropole The city of Paris was the capital of an empire and its imperial shadows are long
