Speaking of Flowers Victoria Langland,2013-05-30 Speaking of Flowers is an innovative study of student activism during Brazil s military dictatorship 1964 85 and an examination of the very notion of student activism which changed dramatically in response to the student protests of 1968 Looking into what made students engage in national political affairs as students rather than through other means Victoria Langland traces a gradual uneven shift in how they constructed defended and redefined their right to political participation from emphasizing class race and gender privileges to organizing around other institutional and symbolic forms of political authority Embodying Cold War political and gendered tensions Brazil s increasingly violent military government mounted fierce challenges to student political activity just as students were beginning to see themselves as representing an otherwise demobilized civil society By challenging the students political legitimacy at a pivotal moment the dictatorship helped to ignite the student protests that exploded in 1968 In her attentive exploration of the years after 1968 Langland analyzes what the demonstrations of that year meant to later generations of Brazilian students revealing how student activists mobilized collective memories in their subsequent political struggles
