Jonathan Hammond
Unit Applications Support Team Leader
Cumbria County Council

BACKGROUND

Cumbria Information Systems (CIS) delivers corporate IT services to Cumbria County Council, one of England's largest counties. CIS Jonathan Hammond (Unit Applications Support Team Leader) and his team provide installation, support and consulting to the Council's many and varied departments.

The Council operates a devolved management structure for its IT systems, meaning that departments can choose the management system that best suits their needs, combining centralised and self management. Hammond gives the examples of one department that opts to use desktop applications hosted on the central server while they host a specially developed application on their own server and another department that chooses to locate all of its applications centrally. CIS has used emulation programs to provide user access to the software hosted on the Council machines for some years.
