Subject Offerings and Enrollments, Grades 9-12 Diane Bochner Gertler,1965 Circular ,1965 Biological Invasions in South Africa Brian W. van Wilgen,John Measey,David M. Richardson,John R. Wilson,Tsungai A. Zengeya,2020-03-10 This open access volume presents a comprehensive account of all aspects of biological invasions in South Africa where research has been conducted over more than three decades and where bold initiatives have been implemented in attempts to control invasions and to reduce their ecological economic and social effects It covers a broad range of themes including history policy development and implementation the status of invasions of animals and plants in terrestrial marine and freshwater environments the development of a robust ecological theory around biological invasions the effectiveness of management interventions and scenarios for the future The South African situation stands out because of the remarkable diversity of the country and the wide range of problems encountered in its varied ecosystems which has resulted in a disproportionate investment into both research and management The South African experience holds many lessons for other parts of the world and this book should be of immense value to researchers students managers and policy makers who deal with biological invasions and ecosystem management and conservation in most other regions Learner-centered Science Education, 2019-02-11 This book arises from the author's experience of the South African science curriculum development and teaching since 1994 exploring definitions of science and approaches to science education appropriate to a newly liberated developing country Each of the 50 chapters is borne out of Cliff Malcolm's close relationships with communities in SA where he obtained deep insights into their attitudes to science teaching and learning providing him with an empirical basis to challenge tertiary institutions to transform their curriculum offerings to embrace the culture and world views of African students The author makes a compelling case for the evolution of relevant science teaching and learning that provide capital for indigenous knowledges The book has relevance also to first world countries because the social and educational problems facing South Africa though starker here are present in all countries The book addresses among others the nature of scientific knowledge and knowledge production how scientific knowledge can be accessed and represented what counts as legitimate scientific knowledge in the South African context of colonization liberation inequity and African belief systems The book extends the debates on African Science and offers ways of talking and writing about science that reframe it acknowledging problematics and pluralism offering ways of bringing Western and African thought together Using a richly descriptive novelistic style the author sketches vivid portraits of his research sites participants and experiences His vignettes are embedded in deep theoretical insights lending gravity to the development discourse in science education providing a coherent language for the transformational agendas of science educators committed to the project of social justice through a relevant science

Extending Intelligence Patrick C. Kyllonen, Richard D. Roberts, Lazar Stankov, 2008 This volume presents research from a variety of perspectives on the enhancement of human intelligence It is organized around five themes enhancement via instruction enhancement via development over the life cycle enhancement over time enhancement via new constructs and new directions in enhancement Three key issues are addressed First although most of the scientific research on intelligence has concerned what it is this volume attends to the consequential societal and economic issue concerns of whether it can be increased and how Second intellectual enhancement is particularly important when targeted to minorities and the poor groups that have typically performed relatively less well on intelligence and achievement measures This volume reflects the education community's ongoing interest in understanding and attempting to close achievement or test score gaps Third most of the attention to examining intellectual enhancement and in accounting for and closing the test score gap has focused on general cognitive ability In line with the current emphasis on considering intelligence from a wider perspective this volume includes constructs such as emotional and practical intelligence in definitions of intellectual functioning Extending Intelligence Enhancement and New Constructs is an essential volume for researchers students and professionals in the fields of educational psychology intelligence educational measurement and assessment and critical thinking
