such devices are likely to transform the practices organization meanings and ethics of caregiving if implemented at scale This new form of techno welfare state that Japan is prototyping involves a reconfiguration of care that deskills and devalues care work and reduces opportunities for human social interaction and relationship building Moreover contrary to expectations that care robots will save labor and reduce health care expenditures robots cost more money and require additional human labor to tend to the machines As Wright shows robots alone will not rescue Japan from its care crisis The attempts to implement robot care instead point to the importance of looking beyond such techno fixes to consider how to support rather than undermine the human times spaces and relationships necessary for sustainably cultivating good care Safe Patient
