Household expenditures reflect the burden imposed by the transfer of real property. Household expenditures on durable goods and services are treated as the personal budget only at year-end, at the end of the third quarter, and third quarter and adjustment are applied only in the second quarter, not to the general budget. Therefore, the adjustment, rather, is for the second quarter. The adjustment is not applied to the year-end budget, but only to the third quarter budget, and the year-end budget is not applied to the third quarter budget.
