Wood,2018-11-12 The dramatic task of re-imagining clerical identity proved crucial to the Renaissance and Reformation Jon Wood brings new light to ways in which that discussion animated reconfigurations of church state and early modern populace End Times considerations of Christian religion had played a part in upheavals throughout the medieval period but the Reformation era mobilized that tradition with some new possibilities for understanding institutional leadership Perceiving dangers of an overweening institution on the one hand and anarchic priesthood of all believers on the other hand early Protestants defended legitimacy of ordained ministry in careful coordination with the state The early Reformation in Zurich emphatically disestablished traditional priesthood in favour of a state supported prophethood of exegetical linguistic expertise The author shows that Heinrich Bullinger's End Times worldview led him to reclaim for Protestant Zurich a notion of specifically clerical priesthood albeit neither in terms of statist bureaucracy nor in terms of the traditional sacramental character that his precursor Huldrych Zwingli had dismantled Clerical priesthood was an extraordinarily fraught subject in the sixteenth century especially in the Swiss Confederation Heinrich Bullinger's private manuscripts helpfully supplement his more circumscribed published works on this subject The argument about reclaiming a modified institutional priesthood of Protestantism also prompts re-assessment of broader Reformation history in areas of church state coordination and in major theological concepts of covenant and justification that defined religious confessional distinctions of that era Timor-Leste's Bill of Rights Annemarie Devereux,2015-05-28 The Constitution of the Democratic Republic of Timor Leste of 2002 contains over 40 human rights provisions in its Bill of Rights In addition to providing an overview of the process leading up to the adoption of the Constitution this book brings together
