Grabbe,2024-01-11 Lester Grabbe here distills his wide body of work on the subject of prophecy The volume considers prophecy in different cultural contexts across ancient Israel and surrounding areas Beginning with a consideration of prophecy in the Hebrew Bible Grabbe then looks at it as phenomenon in the ancient near east including Mesopotamia Egypt and the Levant From this background in the immediate context of ancient Israel Grabbe then widens the cultural lens to consider prophecy in more global environments including Africa and the Americas and recent examples of pseudo biblical prophets such as Joseph Smith In the final part of the book Grabbe then analyses these different prophetic types and forms looking at the continuing traditions of prophecy alongside their ancient roots

The ballad minstrelsy of Scotland, romantic and historical, with notes and introduction Scotland,1872 The Romantic Life D. Andrew Yost,2022-08-24 The world is disenchanted Rationalization intellectualization and scientism rule the day We used to see the world as a magical place but now it's just a material space How did we get here The shift comes in part from the rise of a certain kind of secularism one that reduces human experiences to whatever is explainable through observation Love It's just a biological drive Joy a rush of adrenaline Beauty an influx of dopamine If you can't test it it isn't true or so the thinking goes The Romantic Life draws upon eighteenth and nineteenth century Romanticism to provide five strategies to re-enchant the world five ways to imbue the world with meaning truth and beauty According to the Romantics far from being useless encounters with impractical things like the imagination nature symbolism sincerity and the sublime give our lives a richness and depth that cannot be attained on a purely material account of the world By learning from their example we can come to see into the life of things as William Wordsworth called it We can be re-enchanted

Mediaeval Romance in England Laura Alandis Hibbard Loomis,1924 Mediaeval Romance in England Laura Hibbard Loomis,1924 Romantic Adaptations Cian Duffy,Peter Howell,2016-04-08 How did romanticism define its relationship with its sources How has romanticism since been understood and misunderstood across a range of cultural activities These are among the questions taken up in this reexamination of the place of adaptation within romanticism Renegotiating the cultural topography of the period and the place of romanticism in subsequent cultural history the volume focuses on the adaptation of source material by romantic writers and the adaptation in subsequent periods of the tropes and ideologies associated with romanticism In place of a hierarchical distinction between source and text between romanticism and its contexts the collection identifies distinct but overlapping and mutually constitutive genres such as the Gothic and romance Whether their essays deal with early nineteenth century periodical reviews affordable editions of Pride and Prejudice aimed at the late nineteenth century mass audience or the ongoing cultural presence of romanticism in late twentieth and early twenty first century debates about embryology and stem cell research the contributors remain cognizant of the tension between the processes of adaptation and the apparent ideology of romantic originality

the vernacular community Subtly and with great erudition Neubauer traces in different genres and fields the many transnational cross currents around Romantic cultural criticism and writings on music and language offering not only fresh analytical insights but also a rich account of the interaction between Romantic aesthetics and cultural nationalism

Old Celtic Romances Various Authors, Among the Celtic people of Ireland and the north west of Scotland story telling has always been a favourite amusement In the olden time they had professional story tellers variously designated according to rank ollaves shanachies fil s bards etc whose duty it was to know by heart a number of old tales poems and historical pieces and to recite them at festive gatherings for the entertainment of the chiefs and their guests These story tellers were always well received at the houses of princes and chiefs and treated with much consideration and on occasions when they acquitted themselves well so as to draw down the applause of the audience they were often rewarded with costly presents To meet the demand for this sort of entertainment ingenious men of learning taking legends or historical events as themes composed stories from time to time of which those that struck the popular fancy were caught up and remembered and handed down from one generation of story tellers to another In course of time a body of romantic literature grew up consisting chiefly of prose tales which were classified according to subject into Battles Voyages Tragedies Military Expeditions Cattle Raids Courtships Pursuits Adventures Visions etc Some of these tales were historical i e founded on historical events and corresponded closely with what is now called the historical romance while others were altogether fictitious pure creations of the imagination But it is to be observed that even in the fictitious tales the main characters are always historical or such as were considered so The old ollaves wove their fictions round Conor Mac Nessa and his Red Branch Knights or Finn and his Fena or Luga of the Long Arms and his Dedannans or Conn the Hundred fighter or Cormac Mac Art like the Welsh legends of Arthur and his Round Table or the Arabian romances of Haroun al Raschid and his Court The greater number of the tales were as I have said in prose But some were in poetry and in many of the prose tales the leading characters are often made to express themselves in verse or some striking incident of the story is repeated in a poetical form Not unfrequently the fragments of verse introduced into a prose tale are quotations from an older poetical version of the same tale and hence it often happens that while the prose may be plain enough the poetry is often archaic and obscure
